

Folksburg Items
F. G. COX, Homes

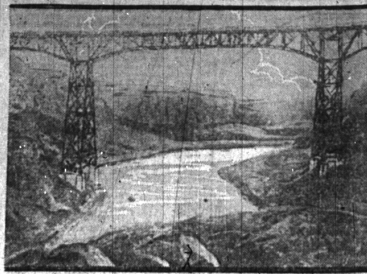

Miss Daisy Bell has asked us did we think the readers of these items would like for her to write a piece of poetry for them. For diplomatic reasons, we couldn't give her a frank answer, so she said she'd have a piece ready in a week or two. Consequently we'd advise everybody to sort of stand by and be watching, for she generally surprises you one way or the other.

Miss Henrietta Nichols went up to the city last Saturday and bought a fur coat like she's been wanting for a long time. She wore it around town a good deal on Sunday, and some of her friends are a little miffed on account of they say she passed them and didn't let on like she recognized them.

Abe Pinnick has sold his lot on Mulberry street to a man from

Contender for Highest Bridge

With a floor 176 feet above the bed of the canyon, the bridge, shown above, which is in the process of construction over the Snake river near Twin Falls, Idaho, is believed to be the highest span of its kind in the world. In addition to its great height, it is 1,400 feet long.

Newport for $400 and Israel Treadway is feeling tolerably miserable about it. Israel could have bought the lot last summer for $125.00 and was afraid to take a chance.

Marshal Bailey was on the lookout yesterday for a certain automobile which was supposed to be headed this way, and which it seems like was tainted with suspicion. He didn't see it, but Emmett Tucker and Elmira Peck are pretty sure they did, and Bailey has been trying to get description from them. Elmira says it was a bright red color, but Emmett is positive it was either black or a sort of a yellow shade.

Mr. Homer Todd has read, in the paper about some man out west who has been asleep for six days. It didn't tell his name, and she says that's just like one of Homer's brothers that went off somewhere and they've not heard from him for a while. She thinks it might be him, for she says he could do it if he wasn't disturbed on a sort of a Christmas aspect and an expectant feeling is beginning to hang over the whole town. Seems like the sight of some painted toys, and striped candy, and a few Christmas trees in the store windows can mighty near start all of us believing in Santa Claus again. Something or other kind of carries us back to when we hung yarn stockings around the old fireplace, and scurried out in the early morning to look for reindeer tracks in the snow. Personally the writer hopes he'll never quite get away from that feeling when Christmas comes.

Our hydrant water has had a terrible rusty taste these last few days, and a good many people can't drink it. Wesley Mula has been all over town hunting water he can drink, and can't find any. He went to Ezra Broeden's restaurant thinking maybe a bowl of soup would stop his craving, but he says Ezra's soup hasn't weakened the bad taste in the water any that he can tell.

Mrs. Hettie Thomas was tolerably put out for a little while one day, last week on account of she found where Tom Jackson's dog had dug a big hole in her yard. She spoke publicly that if Tom would happen along right then she could tell him what she thought of him and the dog both. But she didn't see him for two or three days, and by then her mind was occupied with other matters.

Henry Simmons, from down in the Willow Creek section, was in town last Saturday. He came for the purpose of paying the $5.00 dues on the insurance he's got with J. F. Patton. But he found that the time is not up till next Saturday, so he said he'd come back and pay it then.

We've been waiting for nearly an hour to hear of something else to fill in here. But seems like it's a quiet day in town and we can't wait any longer for the train in only thirty minutes late, and we want to get this off today so as not to disappoint anybody.

Persons of varying shades of religious opinion will view a recent occurrence at Park Huron, Mich., according to their respective lights. There an American flag, donated by the K. K. K. was hoisted by a negro war veteran to the top of a pole given by a prominent Jew, while the dedicatory address was made by a Catholic priest, the ceremony taking place in the yard of the Methodist church.
