PARRY FEATURES IN ROTARY TALK

James W. Parry, local Rotarian, in his usual facetious manner of public speaking, featured the program of the club Monday noon when he offered various New Year's resolutions for members. Needless to say, Mr. Parry dispatched his task with nicety, to the extreme gaiety of all those present. Harold Klein was in charge of the program which also included the giving of some of Mr. Kresge's most expensive products to Walter Connelly, Thomas H. Cobb, and George R. Averill.

Beginning next Monday, the Birmingham Rotary club will hold its meetings at the Chuteau Tea Room, in Birmingham. As evidence of its appreciation for the favors bestowed upon it during the period of meeting in the Lone Pine Tea House, the club voted an appropriation from its treasury for the purchase of a suitable gift for Mrs. Fraser, owner.

Residents Miss Old Goodfellow

Christmas with all its cheery greetings and high spirits has come and gone, but in the hearts of many of the older residents of Birmingham there was a void, a void that can never be quite filled up on this earth.

There was one greeting lacking, one hearty smile missing, one call that was awaited in vain, for W. D. Clizbe, who was wont to "play Santa Claus" to about 40 townspeople every Christmas, is gone.

Mr. Clizbe used to deliver Yuletide sacks containing oranges, candy and pop corn which Mrs. Clizbe had spent many hours preparing. And with every little token went the best and cheeriest of greetings.

But Mr. Clizbe is gone, and Mrs. Clizbe is gone, and so there was an empty spot in many hearts this Christmas.

BIRMINGHAM MAN DIES AT HOME

Pernicious anemia was the cause of the death Friday night of Charles A. Kinney at his home at 126 Davis street. Mr. Kinney had been ill for some time previous to his death.

He was 66 years old and was employed as a carpenter at the Ford Motor company. Burial took place at 2 p. m. Monday in Roseland Park cemetery.

Mr. Kinney is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ida E. Kinney, a daughter and one brother, who lives in New York.

Gustav Zorn, a New York drug addict, was found to have cocaine concealed in his ears when arrested.

CHURCHES OBSERVE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

50 Members Take Part in Pageant at St. James' Church

Nowhere was the Christmas spirit more in evidence last week than in the Birmingham churches, where pageants and Christmas programs were in order.

The Nativity pageant at St. James' Church, in which more than 50 members of St. James' and Christ Church, Cranbrook, took part, was the most elaborate entertainment. It was presented Dec. 23, and proved to be lovelier than any of the seven previous annual performances.

The Methodist Episcopal Church and the United Presbyterian Churches also had Christmas entertainments, both of which were well attended.

An elaborate Christmas program was presented at the new Halsey Baptist Church Thursday evening, with Mr. Williams presiding.

A community singing led by F. B. Stafford opened the evening program, followed by special numbers by the boys and girls choir and by several individuals.

The complete program follows:

Opening, a group of songs by everybody led by F. B. Stafford; prayer and remarks, the pastor; song, the boys and girls choir; a speech, Junior Gierschke; a special errand, Naomi Wright; Christmas welcome, Jimmie Donahoe; Welcome speech, Francis Williams; cheerful giving, Edwin Dorris; Song of Christmas, The Primary; playing Santa Claus, Helen Gierschke; just Christmas, John Williams; a Child is born, Sherley Keen; a solo, A Christmas prayer, Francis Williams; In a Stable, Walter Allison; exercise, the Primary; The Christmas message, Billy Beaume; Advise to Dolly, Virginia Lamm; The Christmas spirit, Wilford Donahoe; The Message of the bells, Grace Stiff; Song, The boys; Jesus once came to earth, Billy Lamm; Christmas notes, Verna Snyder; Merry Marion Donahoe; His gifts, Verna Comstock; Song, The girls; His star in your sky, Verna Floyd; If there were no Christmas, Ethel Decosta; Song, Boys and Girls choir; The Christmas journey, Inez Simms; Gifts to the King, Stella McKiana; Dialogue, Verna Comstock and Inez Simms; Song, The choir; Reading, Why there were Christmas trees, Mrs. Stafford; Song, Verna Comstock and Inez Simms.

COLD WEATHER FAILS TO DETER GOLFERS

Nobody has been bashful about expressing his opinion of Michigan weather, now, or any other time, but there are two men in Birmingham who will admit that the irresponsible nature of Michigan's thermometer has its advantages.

Tunis Miner and William Storey shot 18 holes of golf over the Oakland Hills course Sunday without even a frozen nose to show for it.
