Pontiac Landmark Appears in West

Regardless of where we roam, there is no place like home—and the farther we get away from home the greater boosters we become for the home town.

In the spring of this year, P. C. Weller, a travelling salesman, happened to be in Reno, Nevada, strolling down the main street, he saw a car that he had never seen before, being driven toward him. When the car came to a stop, he examined the car and was startled to see "Pontiac" on the manipulator, with an Indian head as radiator cap emblem.

"It that car made in Pontiac, Mich?" he asked the driver.

"This is a new car, the Pontiac Six, made in Pontiac, Mich," replied the driver. "It's the first of these cars to be delivered to any dealer in the state of Nevada."

"Say, I'm from Pontiac, Mich," stated Mr. Weller, a warmth of local pride surging up, "and if that car is made in Pontiac, it's a good car. Sell it to me now and I will take it."

"A check was signed and turned over to the dealer (who was driving the car) and Mr. Weller drove off. Last week he returned to Pontiac, Mich., to enter the real estate business and incidentally visited the Oakland factories with his Pontiac car—the speedometer showing a roaming of 18,000 miles.

CHEVROLET HITS NEW HIGH MARK

Again shattering all production records in the history of three-wheeled automobiles, the Chevrolet Motor company, in November, closed its greatest year with an output of 728,897 cars—an increase of more than 40 per cent over the previous record year.

The unparalleled public favor which has attached itself to the Chevrolet car has enabled the company to exceed by 209,837 cars its own record of 1925 when 519,060 units were produced.

Under pressure of the most sensational demand the great organization has ever witnessed, factory wheels turned at a record clip throughout the year, building a Chevrolet car every 12 seconds of each working day. Daily production averaged 2,450 cars and reached a high monthly level in September when daily output averaged 3,381 units.
