"THE MAN WHO CAME BACK" AT BONSTELLE PLAYHOUSE

John Fleming Wilson wrote an unusually powerful story in "The Man Who Came Back" and one that is particularly pertinent today in view of the present delation between father and son; Jules Eckert Goodman lost none of the virile points and added much to his comedy in the dramatization, which is being revived at the Bonstelle Playhouse at the present time. It stands forth as one of the most pointed and virile dramas of the past decade, yet at the same time provides many natural and human laughs and combines to a rare degree, romance, comedy, thrills and drama.

Donald Cameron, leading man, displays surprising versatility as Henry Potter, Jr., the young man reared on a silver spoon and who is cast out of his father's house with a check for $500.00 and told to earn his own living. His sane argument with his father to the effect that he had never been reared to earn his living and his subsequent statement that he would make the name of Potter known in every part in the world, but not as the elder Potter desired, forms but a thought turned into concrete action by the Messrs. Wilson and Goodman. The play reveals the redeeming power of love and its effect for good. Henry Potter tastes the drugs in an opium joint in China, where he has been followed by Marcelle, the cabaret singer who truly loved him. Both have touched the depths and in this den they plight their love and begin the climb upward, hindered at every advance step by a misunderstanding father and his agents. The play opens at the Potter mansion in New York City and ends there, meanwhile traveling to San Francisco, Shanghai, China, and a plantation near Honolulu.

The Bonstelle Company finds itself particularly happy in this virile drama and Adams Rice and the technical crew are to be complimented on their unusual production—quite the best of this play ever given Detroit.

AT B. F. KEITH'S TEMPLE THEATER, DETROIT

Joseph E. Howard and his "Broadcasting Revue," with Pauline Zeno, Marjorie Lincoln and Jason, Robson and Blue, Billie Senna and Company, the Jimtown Rhythm Kings and a snappy singing and dancing chorus features the bill at B. F. Keith's Temple Theater, starting Sunday matinee. Mr. Howard is a pioneer in the matter of producing revues for vaudeville and this season's offering is his latest and biggest success. He produced the entire show, provided book, lyrics and music and appears as the star in Broadcasting Revue. Others billed: Joe Boganny and his eight comedians in "Fun in a Bakeshop"; Weir's baby elephants presented by Don Dargach; Bill Robinson, "The Dark Cloud of Joy"; America's foremost tap dancer; Jed Dooley, the "Cameo Comic" in a routine of rare travesty; Courtney and Keyes, musical comedy favorites in a song and dance interlude; Tamaki Duo, featuring Miss Tami; and the "Hollywood" troupe, featuring the art of self defense; Charley Chase in Hal Roach's latest fun film with Mildred Harris and Vivian Oakland and the weekly screen subjects.

False Alarm

In 1750 a fanatic predicted an earthquake in London, and thousands of people spent several nights in tents in Hyde park and other open spaces. Special prayers were said and a number of sermons were preached on the coming "disaster," but nothing out of the ordinary occurred.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

Albion, Michigan
February 13, 1926

Mr. George R. Averill,
Editor, Birmingham Eccentric.

Dear Mr. Averill:

Too many people believe that the Sunday movie issue is a conflict based on prejudice instead of principle.

Why we expect most of the local merchants to close up Sunday and expect all of the motion picture houses and cafeterias to stay open remain open seven days a week is a peculiar phenomenon. I have never seen a representative of either of these two institutions show, by pen or word, any logical argument in favor of Sunday operation. And I have been looking for it for several years.

The point is not, "What harm will it do?" but "What good will it do?" And will that good be accomplished at the expense of harm that makes the goodie into the background?

The history of those countries which have encouraged business enterprises to run seven days a week is a history of disappointment, wastefulness and despair.

The aim of the churches is to give the people what they need while the aim of the motion picture houses seems to be to give the people what they want.

Respectfully,
W. E. PECK.

DETROIT DOG SHOW

Entries for the Detroit Dog Show at the Convention Hall, March 3-7, will close February 22. It is to be given under the auspices of the Detroit Kennel Club. W. J. Baumgartner of Birmingham is the secretary and will take the entries. All kinds of dogs will be eligible and do not have to be pedigreed or registered to enter the show.

Vast Expansion and Advanced Equipment make New Prices Possible

The history of Dodge Brothers drastic price reductions is simple and brief.

A better and better product followed by greater and greater demand.

To meet that demand, an expansion of buildings and equipment involving an expenditure of more than $10,000,000.

Output vastly increased, with consequent reduction in the cost of materials and production.

Installation of advanced labor-saving and quality-increasing equipment. For instance, one giant steel-body press costing $10,000 replaces ten former presses costing $7,500 each, and does the work more efficiently.

Result: The finest line of vehicles in Dodge Brothers history at prices that seem incredible in view of Dodge Brothers traditional quality—

That seem more incredible still when considered in connection with improvements that include—

Rich and attractive new colors.

Smart and stylish new body lines.

Four dependable cylinders.

Absolute smoothness of engine operation.

Greater power, snap and elasticity.

And advanced steel body and windshield construction that afford exceptional driving vision at a time when clear vision and safety are paramount in the mind of every motorist.
