Say That You Will Vote Tomorrow

By Goorge R. Averill

For the past several weeks you have read many articles concerning the three bond issues up at the special village election tomorrow, Thursday, July 29; you have also listened to many arguments on the question. Your mind is probably made up as to just how you will vote.

You will, however, do well to remember that this mere act of voting, a rather prosale and routine thing to do these days, is the only way individuals have to MAKE HISTORY for Birmingham! For, you know, the collective result of many votes determines the conditions of government under which we live—therefore the mere act of voting ought to mehn much to us.

If you would sum up the progress of the human race during many recent centuries you would find that it consists CHIEFIY of mar's ability to take affairs of government from the hands of Kings and Kaisers, and to place them in the hands of you and me. That is the real heritage that our ancestors have left us; every other condition of society is a mere by-product of democratic form of government.

Every day you, Mr. and Mrs. Birmingham, make sac-interplage that our ancestors have left us; every other condition of society is a mere by-product of democratic form of government.

Every day you, Mr. and Mrs. Birmingham, make sacrifices for yourselves and for others; the invisible acts of your lives ofttimes would be fitting material upon which to build the story-of some heroic struggle. You-are capable of doing Fines, SPLENDID things—are you going to pass up your duty to yourself and your town, to the very children whom you love?

We don't believe that you are. We feel that, somehow, this wonderful community of Birmingham, blessed with natural advantages and with citizens whose ideals are high, is gaing to respond heartily to Thursday's ballot box; that it is going to so, respond because it is the individual's DUTY as well as privilege to officiate in the destiny of his home-town.

home-town. And, we hope and trust, that the results of the election will manifest the fact that Birmingham citizens stand squarely back of their elective officials plan to provide a new public library, a new fire hall, and the two blocks of land to complete the Civic Center.
