WE HEARD IT SAID BY—

(Little Editorial added up by the Staff in and around Birmingham.)

Grover E. Cook: "I noticed the Eccentric came out last week without any pictures on the front page. Next morning the Detroit Free Press did the same thing. All of which goes to show that the Eccentric will soon grow out of that class 'The world's greatest weekly' and will be the 'world's best'."

Rev. S. S. Marquis, Christ Church, Cranbrook: "Speaking about the philosophy of a person changing, I am sixty years old and during the last year my views have changed more than at any other time in my life. I hope that at no time in my life will I have completed my process of widening mentally."

John A. Wendorph, of Brown street, superintendent of Roseland Park cemetery: "Over Sunday and Monday more than 5000 of the 9000 graves in our cemetery were decorated by loving friends and relatives of deceased persons. It was the largest visitation to graves that I have ever seen in Roseland Park cemetery."

J. A. Walsh, of Walsh, James & Wasley Co.: "Of course, the widening of Woodward avenue has brought many thousands of families to the North Woodward section, making for an increase in traffic over the highway. Despite this increased traffic,

After 45--What?

Many people are actually old at 45. This premature aging can very often be traced to disordered kidneys. Assist your kidneys and keep them healthy, retain the bloom of youth and store up energy to fight off enemies of health by drinking Mountain Valley Water from Hot Springs, Ark. however, motoring from Detroit to Birmingham has been made safer and speedier. With continued growth and more traffic I never expect Woodward avenue to be as hazardous as it is when we had the narrow pavement."

The SKY CRY—

DARK forms pass across the moon's face—from out of the night comes the weird call that makes the heart beat fast. The ducks are flying.

For a thousand nights—neath a thousand stars—as the falling leaves of countless years have foretold winter's approach—the southward-winging game has sent out this call as its precisely moving fleets came to rest for the night. Through these years, the lakes, the marshes and backwater of Michigan's rivers have given them shelter and food. But as man pushes his frontiers of civilization further—there is less and less shelter for wild game.

So Consumers Power Company is undertaking a statewide conservation work of benefit to Michigan.

At selected places along the rivers, in the quiet stretches above the dams where the water-power plants make electric light and power, the Company is planting wild rice, sagu tubers and grasses—of the kind needed for game food.

Consumers Power Company not only brings the heretofore useless energy of these rivers to help and serve nearly a million people in 201 Michigan communities—but also turns these faraway places to the uses of State conservation in helping bring back water-fowl and game.

For a thousand nights—neath a thousand stars—Michigan has meant a haven for game. May it be so again.
