

Opinions NEVER UTTERED

Cleanings from the trail of an eccentric staff member's brain storm and in no way connected with the persons whose names are professedly...

George Anderson, Gray Street Shop: "Listening to the beautiful music that comes in over our beautiful new radio I am often tempted to say right back into the horn, 'My but that is beautiful music. It seems a shame, doesn't it that the poor starry-eyed artists who live only for art can't know that I think their music is beautiful. Some day I hope to meet them all personally, grasp them by their hands, after they put down their violins, choirs, pianos, and other instruments, and, choking back the tears, say to them, 'My but your music is beautiful. That's the day, alas, slack, and even poetically, lackaday, that I live for.'"

Donald G. Howarth, realtor: "Speaking of books reminds me of a very funny experience I had. And this was a funny experience, too. I should not tell you it was funny, if it were not funny. Why must I define the term 'funny'? Everyone knows what it means and if they don't they don't they would not appreciate the experience anyway. Now you have made me forget what I was going to say."

Kenneth Brigham, also realtor: "The proposed zoning ordinance is an issue. Red sweaters are good looking. Birmingham has a future. Some persons do not wear hats. Golf is a popular game. Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party and a b-c-d-e-f-g-h-i-j-k-l-m-n-o-p-q-r-s-t-u-v-w-x-y-z."

Henry Wales Price, Chateau Two Rooms: "The origin of language depends to a great extent upon sounds. For instance, the word 'thunder' sounds just like thunder or the angels clapping their hands. The word 'crash' sounds like two machines coming together and so on through out all eternity. But here is one for you, what word does the word 'word' sound like? I guess you are stuck now, aren't you? Ha ha ha ha. Well, never mind, it's a deep study."

Ralph Smith, newspaperman: "Listen, Ecco, will you explain briefly and in half a sentence, the multiplicity of the ego. Objective subjectivity and subjective objectivity. In my opinion, are not given enough attention in the columns of our modern newspapers."

Miss Ethel Bassett, Shain's drug store: "When 23 young athletes on the football field in football uniforms, their hair parted and all, start to play football on the football field, then that is a football game if the schools are different. If the schools are the same, it is a football game if the schools are different. If the schools are the same, it is a football game if the schools are different."

Golf Champion

George Von Elm, who defeated Bobby Jones for the national amateur golf championship, is a Caliber golfer.

Paul Neal Averill, (title underlined): "One nice thing about this paper (The Eccentric) is that it does not have the weekly story like other papers. That is because there is a different philosophy, probably, than in other papers. After all philosophy is a great thing."
