OAKLAND COUNTY PRIMARY
ELECTION
Tuesday, September 14, 1926
The office of Circuit Court Commissioner in Oakland County has, because of the unusual expansion of real estate, become an important one. My experience as a practicing attorney qualifies me, I believe, to fulfil the duties of the office. As candidate for one of the two offices of Circuit Court Commissioner, I shall greatly appreciate the support given me.

'Keep Michigan Green'
Shouts John Baird
Traverse City, Mich., — "Keep Michigan GREEN," posted along every highway in northern Michigan as a fire warning to the thousands of tourists daily pouring in and out of the resort country, appears to have a political significance. Supporters of Fred Green, republican candidate for the gubernatorial nomination chuckle every time they pass one of the signs for they have been posted by someone other than John Baird, head of the state conservation department and one of the drive wheeled of the Greenbeck political machine.
Northern Michigan is Green and apparently will be more so before the polls open for the primaries in September. The admonishment of the Greenbeck department to "Keep it Green" is apparently being taken seriously. And "Faithful John" put up the signs.

Busses will be supplied for persons interested in hearing the men and will leave here at a time designated later. Officials of the real estate company plan a celebration which will include a barbeque, to open the subdivision.

LIKE a tremendously large business organization, in which every modern device for the most perfect of public service is incorporated, yet, which, because of tangled, selfish management is subject to suffer enormous losses, with consequent injustice to trusting stockholders, the State of Michigan, at a crucial point in its historical contour, virtually holds its destiny at the end of a pencil.
