Paris in sponsoring semiprecious gems set in filigree for day and evening wear.

Sports coats are developed in simple lines, in plain wools and will be worn over the straightline street dress.

If you would be smart you will include in your fall wardrobe at least one velvet frock for formal afternoon wear cannot be overemphasized.

A monogram of plained silver, with modern treatment in red, black and blue enamel, has initials cut in maracite.

A white plaited silk skirt is worn with a wicker sweater and a loose tailored coat of scarlet velvet.

Printed crepes are being used more for two-piece dresses than ever before. One very interesting model had three inverted plaits in the front and one down the back.

Velvet will be used for two-piece daytime frocks in the fall. Sometimes two shades are combined in one dress.

Put in deep points will be a favored treatment for fall. An interesting "in-between" coat has a collar of fur, inset so that the point falls below the hips in the back.

The slave bracelets which have been so popular for the past year are again coming back. The modernistic influence is noticeable in most of the designs which will be featured.

A group of frocks have the bodice and skirts of different fabrics in two colors, or two shades of the same color.

A deep burgundy red velvet blouse bordered with mole is worn over a yellow jersey and a checked skirt.

A stunning single-strapped pump is of gray beige kid, trimmed with a beige and gold enameled buckle.

The smartest frocks for the jeune fille have well-defined waistlines.

A long strand of alternated large and tiny bisque-colored pearls is a very smart accessory.

Some unusual Parisian models seen in the smart shops of the Avenue have a longer silhouette. One or two of these frocks have hemlines reaching almost to the ankle.

Stylish will continue to be short, for the main.

In heavy coats a bias waistline will be used, starting above the hip on one side and falling below the hip on the other. This will be effected by the use of embroidery or decorative tape.

The dolman sleeve has been a thing of the past several years, but it is blossoming forth into new life.

SAWS

FOR THE GOOSE

There's no excuse for talkin' behind your back. A thing you can't say right out, you can always say up about.

Every girl knows a certain number of promise young ducks that spend half their time promising, and the other half duckin'.

Love may be misery, but they don't resent the same way to company.

FOR THE GANDER

It's good arithmetic to measure your temper by the teeth and strength of your arm.

You don't need a college education to know yourself. And one won't do you much good if you don't.

A spoiled kid ain't half the disgrace to his parents that a kicked one is.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

DEFENSE AND OFFENSE

They took an old battleship out to sea and bombed her to the bottom from flying ships.

Perhaps the old problem of how nations are to defend themselves is no nearer solution than it ever was.

Every now and then some one impressed by the marvelous development of aviation has a bright idea.

THE YOUNG LADY ACROSS THE WAY

The young lady across the way says she supposes Shakespeare would have lived in history if he hadn't written a thing but Faust.

WHOLESUMER DISHES

The summer squash provides another vegetable to add variety. Cook it, peeling and all, as long as it is tender enough for pieces with the thumb nail.

Rice With Pineapple Cook rice slightly salted until tender and flaky, adding a little milk at the time after it has been cooking until nearly dry in water, season with buttermilk and sugar.

Shred a firm hard head of cabbage and crisp it by covering with cold water. After an hour, or two drain well and cover with thick cream.

French Method of Cooking Peas. Put two large cups of peas in the bottom of a kettle or saucepan; on these place the peas to be cooked, with one small onion.

Cherry Fritters. Make a batter of a cupful and a half of flour, two spoonfuls of baking powder and a half teaspoonful of salt.

Winged air boats that cost comparatively little, and so be prepared for any emergency. That is the way to save money!

The inventive ingenuity of man is always at work on itself.

And so the indefinite competition went on between the two. But as soon as one became superior to the other the inequality was offset by a discovery in the other direction.

A scientific man displayed a device recently which seemed to open up amazing possibilities.

It was disquieting because it indicated once more that you never can tell what may turn up at any moment.

The thing—the right thing for the nation as well as for the individual—is to be prepared for any emergency.

The hat ban has been lifted. After so long time a banishment, enter the hat wide of brim into the enchanted circle of fashionable hats.

When brims are wide they are very wide and vice versa for the small brim. Indeed, no brim at all seems quite in order for unique and distinctive turbans are the favorites when it comes to the snug-fitting sort.

The Care of Books. Many women who take beautiful care of their clothing and their kitchen utensils, their linen closets and their refrigerators are careless about their books.

Books need just as loving care as fur, household linens and the leather shoes. If they are to enjoy long life and keep their shape and their freshness.

The light wool or feather dusting should be used daily, and at least once a month, every book in the house should have individual care.

Swimming can be blamed for a great deal of the over-developed part of the body, and yet it seems a shame to take this delightful form of exercise to task just as it is coming into such general favor.

One of the best ways to do this is to wear a rubber braiser while in the water. But it should be a size too large so that binding is avoided.
