Autocracy vs Democracy--Grosbeck vs. Green

Even the most casual reader of Michigan newspapers during the past few weeks must have gleaned at least a smattering knowledge that primary election is scheduled for next Tuesday, September 14. If asked to prepare an article on what the two Republican candidates for Governor have said with regard to their qualifications, the Average Reader would probably commit himself thusly:

Then The Other Side Speaks. In a setting reminiscent with the color of old Ireland, Fred W. Green Mayor of Iowa, and Republican opponent of Alex. Grosbeck, took to the Governorship at the September 14 primary election, addressed a meeting of the Save Our Tracks at noon today. Mr. Green, with flashing wit and serious demeanor, impressed upon the crowded assemblage the necessity of changing skippers on our Ship of State...
