Let the learned Doctor Little tell us a little leas of the had and a little more of the good that exists in the rank and file of the students at the University of Mechigan.

Let about time that Doctor Little used his talicits to exalt the Lusiness of virtue. Deep within the hearis and minds of everydody there is a desire to be something good and fine; in some of us this desire comes to conscious life and action, while in others it remains a sleep.

Temains a sleep.

Your silken head once swept my arm, And oh, the joy that you were mine! Your cunning wiles, your baby charm! I kept you safe from every harm. And now you tell me you are nine!

What, nine tears old this very day! I can't believe that it'vis so! The years on wings have flown away To mock me, turn my haly to gray; And you, my boy, how fast you grow!

Not long ago you were so sweet Clothed in the dainty frocks I stitched. Now are you clad from head to feet In suit and shirt with the so neat. Or can it be that I'm bewitched?

No mother loved a baby more;
Your sunny smile, each golden curlt.
The little sogks and shoes you wore.
I loved to fondle and adore.
And now you say you've got a girl!
