anyone can vote for capital punishment unless he himself is willing to be executed.

'Not a Deterrent'

'I am sure capital punishment is not a deterrent for crime. Any man who has reached the point where he will kill another does not care whether he himself gets killed.'

IF conditions in the industrial world bring a man to the point where he is willing to kill to get money, you don't cure those conditions by killing the man.

Philip G. Mast, 28, above, commercial artist and electrical engineer, has been found in Kansas City, Mo., following an absence of five months, during which it was believed he had committed suicide by jumping from a bridge.

A body was identified as that of Mast and funeral services were held, Mast's father-in-law, the Rev. Frank M. Burton, paying the expenses.

A charge of second degree forgery has been filed against Mast by the credit manager of a paint concern. Mast says it's all as much a puzzle to him as to others.

Personal representatives, devisees, legatees, successors and assigns, are unknown and the Post Office address of none of them can be ascertained.
