Spacious Grounds Necessary Care With All Sides Of Building

ed not only as to color, but as to size as well. The roof itself will be in several sections, because of the lay-out of the interior. Over the entrance on Martin street, one section of the roof will extend to the top of the doors, while two higher wings will lead out to each side. One of the chief aims of the architects has been to give the building a beautiful appearance on all four sides, because the grounds will extend from Martin to Merrill street, and for more than 50 feet on each side of the building. A special perspective will be obtainable from any direction from the building. Even the back of the building, which will be on Merrill street, has a large arched window, which will not only add materially to the appearance, but will increase the light supply inside as well. There is a great advantage in driving under it, and there should be one against driving over that many.

Five Man Board Proposition Is Taken Off Ballot

(Continued from Page 1) confirmed while circulating the petition. Lawrence Hulbert, 908 Brown street, urged the board not to grow the heads of people who signed the petition. He pointed to the fact that with a seven man board consisting of the members pointed to work on various affairs of government.

Walter Y. Stanley told members of the commission that citizens intended to take the matter to court, if both propositions were placed on the ballot. He said this action would be necessary to secure a larger commission for the village and to prevent possibility of having the proposed ballot called illegal.

Bloomfield Home Guttered By Fire Will Be Rebuilt

(Continued from Page 1) burned and waiting passed in and out, keeping order. The roof was a mass of flames before the Birmingham fire department arrived on the scene. Hose to the amount of 500 feet was unrolled and one end stuck into the pond on the east after a hole had been chopped through the ice. Then the pumping began, pumping that amount of water into the house, bringing 25,000 gallons of water to fight the flames.

Mr. Try to Save Trees. Mr. Try, realizing the futility of attempting to save the house, ordered the firemen to protect the trees about the house in their fighting. The great oaks, maples, elms and other on the grounds were something which could not be replaced, he said. Firemen, in consequence played a steady stream on that part of the house nearest to the trees and none of them was damaged.
