FAVORS 100-FT. WOODWARD

To the Editor: The reason for the construction of a 200 foot highway from Detroit to Pontiac will avoid congestion of traffic.

Work here has been held up on account of the interference of the Grand Trunk line through Birmingham. It seems feasible that the proposed highway should be constructed through Birmingham on the present Grand Trunk right of way.

In a village of small-town shopkeepers can do more business on a 100 foot highway where the heavy through traffic does not interfere.

Personally, I think the village should accept the proposed 100 foot width for Woodward. This width will suffice for the present and until such time as the Grand Trunk right of way will be available.

There is no question but that the cause of the removal of the north and south streets and I believe that congress would do the job for him.

Furthermore, the millions already spent on the east high way, justify its completion at originally planned. I heartily endorse a 100 foot highway through Birmingham and such time as the Grand Trunk road is moved, and then 200 feet more along the Grand Trunk right of way.

THE NEW CONSERVATION DIRECTOR

There were so we believe, quite universal approval of the appointment of Prof. Leigh Jarvis Young as the new conservation director.

What remains to be seen is how a scientific man and a school man will fit into the practical directing of affairs.

NICARAGUA'S FOLK Outnumbered By Population of Pittsburgh, But 60,000,000 To South Resent U. S. Interference, Stewart Says

It took two Michigan conventions, the second of doubtful validity, before enough Michigan delegates happened together to validate the "robbery," accept the wretched piece of snowy wetness which was later known as the upper peninsula, and come in under congress terms.

Such were the turbulent circumstances surrounding the birth and infancy of our state. Today simple Michigan factories employ more than the total census of the state in 1837.
