HIS IDEAS ABOUT WOMEN LABEL MAN, ACCORDING TO AUTHORESS

By MARGUERITE MOOERS

Garden Frock

What rates a man—and dates a man—today?

Not in the last analysis his money, or his position, or his increasing pounds and baldness—It's his ideas about women!

What he thinks about women is the index of his intelligence—or the lack of it.

What he thinks about women is the give-away.

Or whether he is truly modern and young.

And as he—been, a holdover from the dead past.

That's why Mussolini has hurt himself.

Far more than he could hurt his mother's ox.

By telling the world, with minute and insulting amplification, that he, Stalin, Stalin-age notions about women.

Did you read his outburst of pitiful sex agonies?

"The more virile and intelligent a man, the less need he has for returning on it," snail up Luke Michigan to Mackinac and coming down Lake Huron.

Mrs. Sherman L. Dewey, of "Hickory Grove Farm," entertained Friday at luncheon in honor of Mrs. F. F. Worner, of Hickory Grove road.

Mr. and Mrs. Verne Barnett have been entertaining Mrs. Burnett's mother, Mrs. Noble Burnett, of Ann Arbor, at their new home on Brookside drive.

Spring flowers made a delightful background for the dinner party given at the Chateau Tea Room by the teachers of the Wilson School, of Pontiac, last week in honor of several teachers who will not return in the fall. Miss Anna Lawrence, Mrs. Ellen Davay, Miss DeBrown and Miss Violet Cushman were guests.

The Bloomfield Hills Country club was the scene of a lovely bridge luncheon last week when Mrs. O. J. Beaudette, of Pontiac, entertained. Lady and Mrs. centered the luncheon table. Twelve members of the Monday club were guests.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Lott with their children, Annette and Robert, have returned to their home in Columbus, O., after spending a few days with their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Waldrip, of Henrietta street.

Mrs. R. M. Falger and her two children, Jack and Jessie Clay, have returned to Milwaukee, Wis., where they spent a month.

L. H. Waldrip, of Henrietta street, is spending two weeks in Timagami, Ont., fishing. He motored up with J. Quackenbush, of Cleveland, O.

Miss Rosemary Thurber, of Oak street and her grandfather, J. M. Thurber, of Detroit, are visiting Miss Thurber's sister, Mrs. M. K. Petty, in Cambridge, O.

Mrs. Fred D. Farrar and her two children, Mary and Virginia, of Brown street are leaving this weekend for Benton Harbor, where they will spend a month at the summer home of Mrs. Farrar's parents, Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Finking. Mr. Farrar will drive over with his family, returning Sunday. On Monday he will motor in Cadillac with his mother and his aunt, who have been spending a fortnight with the Farrars.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis L. Helfrich, who a few weeks ago left their Oakland avenue home, leave this week for a month in Northern Wisconsin.

GARDEN SHOULD EXPRESS OWNER

By WANDA BARTON

A garden should express its owner's individuality. A great deal can be done along these lines even with a small garden. A patch where the sweet and pickable flowers are grown may have a trim hedge around it with an old-fashioned wicker gate or a flower trellis above the gate, or which a gambler or trim view of some sort may win.

Inside the gate, the flowers should be planted in a table in front, and here one may arrange the flowers in semi-circular beds, or in an atmosphere of perfect peace.

The herb garden should be by itself, a thing apart from the general planting, and here again a garden bench should be placed for the picker's comfort. In planning the herbs, remember their habit of growth and plant the tall flowers at the back as a background for the lower growing kinds.

Where trellises are needed do not make them all alike. Have one or two fan-shaped where they support flat-growing vines, and put in a pole with graduated hooks for feathery vines, with one for the vines to twine about. An umbrella trellis is always fascinating, and a lower may be set for climbing roses to form an entrance to an attractive garden path.

A decorative idea is to plant a hedge of Shirley poppies against a green hedge. They are lovely things and their season is quite long.

Without intelligence, and that he has no need of you save as "an agreeable parenthesis" (Naturally any woman dealing with such a man. Quickly convinces him that he doesn't want her around all the time.)

The poor girl must be able to enjoy a little peace and quiet. Where the men cease from troubling, and a woman is at rest. There's only one reason why a woman should pay any attention to any such cave-man chatter as Mussolini's.

And that is the reason expressed by Laura Kilian Reed, in a letter to this column: "If all men were Mussolini, we might let him get away with it."

But they are NOT. Lots of them are fair-minded, generous-souled, woman-respecting AMERICAN men. Such men are the very first to admit that Mussolini's ideas about women are rot.

Color in the bridal costume is becoming more frequent. In a recent wedding in Washington, D. C., the bride had a touch of aquamarine blue in her veil, tulle and lace. Blue forget-me-nots in her bouquet gave it, too, a touch of color.

The smart woman of today carries luggage in her own hands. There is a new kind of trunk which holds only lingerie, and this is the one to buy, which carries 36 separate labeled boxes for shoes.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

MENU HINT

Fish turbot is a good way to finish up leftover fish, or it may be made from fish bought on purpose for the turbot. If the male members of the family object to the fish turbot, the answer is: Potatoes French Fried in Oven Mexican Salad Lemon Pie Coffee

TODAY'S RECIPES

Fish Turbot—One white fish, medium size, steamed twenty minutes and pickled fine. One pint of milk with one-fourth of an onion, mixed with one-half cup of flour, mixed with cold milk. When cool add two beaten eggs and two tablespoons butter. Put in casserole a layer of fish, then one of dressing, and so on. Cover top with cracker crumbs and juice of lemon. Bake twenty minutes.

Mexican Salad—One cup celery, one cucumber, one-half Spanish onion, one green pepper. Chop fine all the vegetables and combine. Mix with following dressing: Three tablespoons butter, one tablespoon sugar, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon cornstarch, one-half teaspoon mustard, one egg, three fourths cup vinegar. Melt butter and add the dry ingredients, stirring until smooth. Add vinegar gradually and cook for five minutes. Pour slowly on to beaten egg, stirring constantly. Return to fire and cook for three minutes over boiling water. Chill thoroughly before serving.

Trim your nightdress with a dark, contrasting lace if you would be up-to-the-minute.

Bonnet-like hats are now the vogue in Paris, but they are expected to change to large types.

Dyed patent leather is smart for handbag and shoes on infants.

If you use tucking in your new gown you cannot go wrong for tucks of all kinds are very much the vogue just now.

EXERCISES GIVEN TOWARD REDUCING

By LUCREZIA BORI

When people say, "How well you look—why you're twice as fat as you used to be," they may mean it entirely but unfortunately, fat is not always healthy. And exercising to reduce, unless overdone, is always very beneficial. So if your abdomen is larger than you would like it to be, with a little sincere effort, and the following exercises, you can quickly reduce it to its normal size, and greatly aid your general health.

The first exercise for reducing the abdomen is that of wall-hiking. Lying flat on the floor, with arms relaxed straight out to the floor above your head, with the hips touching the wall, keep the legs straight up against the wall, and bend the right leg down until the knee touches the abdomen. Keep the heel of the left foot pressed upward. At the same time that you bend the right leg down, bring the arms out to the side, bending them at the elbow until they are close to the sides. Reverse the other leg in the same exercise, and continue until tired, trying to work up to 300 times, retaining as in bicycling.

The treadmill—stand with the feet front, then rise on the toes, the body being bent forward, the arms hanging loosely down, and with running motion swing the body backward from hip more than from knee. Then try the other leg, running rapidly in the same spot about fifty times.

Next try the backsliding exercise. Standing with the heels four inches from the wall, with the shoulders and hips touching the wall, arms bent out at the elbows, rise on tiptoe, bend the knees, keeping them together, and slide down the wall as far as it is possible to go and still be able to come back up without touching the hands. Repeat this exercise, which is rather difficult, only five to ten times.
