First Steps Taken On Disposal Plant

cussion of the project but little in a definite way was decided. Most of the men present were in favor of the project so far as it was discussed. Those present represented Birmingham, Bloomfield Township, Bloomfield Hills Village, and Troy Township.

Many Attend

They are, from Birmingham: President H. T. Eisenbeiss, Commissioners Ralph I. Coryell, Lawrence Hulbert, W. W. Henry, J. H. McBride, and Scott Hersey; and Village Manager James W. Parry. Robert V. Moore, supervisor, and James V. Bayley, township clerk, were present from Bloomfield Township. Bloomfield Hills was represented by William Story, clerk, T. W. Taliaferro, George E. Roehm, commissioners, and Luther D. Allen, president. Troy was represented by Garner Miller, clerk, and Morris Watches, supervisor. Harry S. Starr, engineer of Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills also was present.

The committee appointed by Mr. Moore, chairman, at the Friday meeting consists of Mr. Watches, as chairman, Mr. Allen, Mr. Moore, Mr. Ellerby and Joseph Brooks, supervisor of Southfield Township. The committee represents the various communities involved in the proposed trunk line and sewage disposal plant.

Spencer Favors Move

Mr. Spencer expressed himself as being in favor of the project. He declared it would have to be south of Birmingham in order to give the best advantage and that it would be designed to accommodate all Bloomfield Township and the northeast corner. It would also include all of the River Rouge section of Troy Township.

It was pointed out by Mr. Starr that the sanction of the move would practically form a metropolitan district and that the authority for the construction of the system could be given to Mr. Spencer.

The right to levy taxes for the project on the property holders could be obtained, it was said, if the report of the committee is favorable in September and the group decided in favor of the project a petition will be circulated in the first place in the matter, it is planned.

Village In Hills Delays Zoning Again

apartments, if approved by a mandatory board of appeals. Approval of confining the commercial and business district to sections extending on the two streets from Woodward avenue and Long Lake road, is also generally granted.

The zoning ordinance, in brief, regulates and restricts location of buildings; the height and bulk; density of population; percentage of lot occupancy; area of yards and space surrounding buildings; and maximum number of families which may be housed in a dwelling. It divides the village into sections and provides penalties for those who disregard it. The fines for disobedience of the various classes range from $25 to $100 and imprisonment cannot exceed 90 days.

Referendum Disapproved

It was suggested at the meeting that the law be put to a referendum of the community. This idea was disapproved by T. W. Taliaferro, commissioner. He explained that a vote of the people would establish the ordinance so firmly that necessary changes which might arise would be difficult to negotiate. In a vote by the people, he stated, those most concerned, those on Woodward avenue, would be in the minority and would not receive justice.

Estimates Made On Oak Street Paving

One-sixth of the money will be taken from the general fund of the village and the other five-sixths will come from the special assessment district, according to early plans.

The first resolution on the paving district, which is also seen as the first step toward the completion of a new village school for which a bond issue has been approved, is expected to be passed by the commission next Monday.

sideration, declared the Rev. Mr Forsyth. That character values are better assets for doing business with a bank than any real estate or bond collateral, was also stated by the speaker, who said that the modern banker will take a greater risk with a poor man whose reputation is substantial than with a rich man whose promise may be broken. Too much criticism of the unthinking kind is prevalent in our country, he continued, and asked that we all be more tolerant of the shortcomings of others.

Generous applause followed the Rev. Mr. Forsyth's address.
