When You Make DOUGHNUTS

By HANNAH WING

The one thing that makes the doughnut unpopular is to offer it either as a heavy, fat soaked affair or as a heavy ring with a soggy center of absorbent dough. To make good doughnuts select a recipe in which the proportions are right. This has almost as much to do with the business of absorbing fat as bad cooking. In four milk may make a better doughnut than sweet not because of the varying degrees of sourness, it requires almost too much skill for the novice who will do well to stick to sweet milk recipes. It is truly funny when a good foolhardy to make doughnuts without at least one egg as eggs add to the lightness of the dough and help prevent fat absorption. Too much sugar makes a stickier batter to handle and that is higher when done. Very good doughnuts may be made without fat. It is never necessary to use fat unless many eggs are used as an over rich doughnut results. Use much baking powder. It is the same thing so slightly less is used than for muffins or biscuits. The proportions of ingredients are the same thing so slightly less is used than for muffins or biscuits. ## ROOFING USED FOR LINOLEUM Organizes Women

Who, one does not own the house and lives in, buying the best linoleum seems an extravagance, and the cheaper grades often fail to appeal. The writer needed such a quantity for the floor of her big old house, where the linoleum was exceedingly cracked and worn that it was impossible to consider buying it, especially as plain, soft, color were wanted, and she can't obtain one in expensive varieties. Consequently two rolls of rubberized quarry roofing were laid on the dining-room floor, one-half an inch being left at each side for expansion. It was unnecessary to cement the seams, as with the help of the house the roofing expanded to the size of the room, and she would the seams together so that they hardly showed. After it was painted and waxed, everyone agreed that it made a beautiful, unfaded floor not in any way suggesting a cheap makeshift job. Harmonizing with the old mahogany furniture of the room in a way that was not well and can be depended on, it has worn well and is a little trouble to care for. It has been laid on the floor in a room of 10 by 12 feet. In laying it on the floor, she found that the material is very sandy and smooth. She will never use it again in the future, where it clings to the floor.

Wardrobe In Need Of Care, Says Expert

By WANDA BARTON.

The only way to keep a wardrobe in good shape is to give it a little care now and then, and a necessity. All clothes, trousers, or hangers, should be covered by a cloth, and the clothes should be kept in a dry place. For the clothes to be covered with a cloth, they must be covered with a cloth.

Fashion's Trend

By SYLVESTRE DORIAN

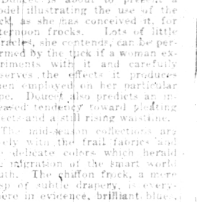

A marked tendency toward shiffling styles as opposed to dull ones has been evidenced during the past week and will undoubtedly continue. Solid white and solid black remain extremely popular in evening gowns, but the combination of black and white, following the designer's pronouncement that it suggested age, is falling into the background.

Little Mascara Makes the Eyes

By LUCREZIA BORI

Mascara is undoubtedly an aid to women in the removal of body but it should be handled with extreme caution for it can do more damage than good in careless hands. However, hundreds of women are using it discreetly and are being benefited for their care by a more beautiful appearance.

It is a wise plan to fill the eye-socket with a mild solution of borax and salt in a weak solution. In case of emergency, if the mascara is not removed from the lashes, use a little vaseline in the eye-socket solution and then more mascara will get into the eye when the soap is used.
