IN MEMORIAM

Mrs. George Scott died seven years ago the seventh of May.
A MOTHER
There is a mother that I love,
Gone to the Heavenly shores above.
I did my best while she was here
To comfort her in her last years.
Her hands showed toil,
Her face showed love,
While here on earth she toiled for us,
Others seek the world's pleasures,
But I seek her love forever.
Her loving daughter and family,
Mrs. George Scott. 4

MODERN ST. JOSEPH MERCY HOSPITAL TO SPECIALIZE IN DIAGNOSTIC WORK

day and the $800 rooms, which have private baths, for $10 a day.

These rentals are known as "basic" rentals, which, Father Bourke explained, means "the rate at which the room and attendant hospital service is charged. However, if a patient needs the care that this institution can give and is not able to pay the basic rental, he will be cared for at a rate within his purse limitation."

Emergency Department a Feature

An emergency department on the ground floor, to which rush cases, such as accident victims, may be taken without waiting for an elevator, is one of the features of the hospital. Complete equipment for emergency cases is contained in the department, which utilizes three rooms.

Services will be held every morning for the doctors, nurses, and patients who are able, and anyone else wishing to attend, in the hospital chapel. This chapel, is a miniature church. Everything that a large church has, it has on a smaller scale, giving almost a fairy-like delicacy to the details. Built after the Roman style of architecture, the chapel has cream and gold walls and ceiling, and pews of mission. The altar has a white marble base and onyx columns, with a white marble crucifix, against a background set with gold mosaics. The mysteries of the Rosary are portrayed in the 10 windows, imported from Munich, Germany.

Run by Sisters of Mercy

St. Joseph's will be operated by the Sisters of Mercy of Dubuque, Ia., who are also in charge of St. Joseph's Hospital in Ann Arbor. Sister Mary Carmelita will be the superintendent. She comes from Ann Arbor, where she has been stationed for six years.

One of the loveliest special departments in the hospital is that for the babies. Tiled walls of palest pink make an ideal nursery. Snowy white bassinets and an incubator are the important features of the nursery equipment. Special windows have been imported from Austria for this room, which has a western and northern exposure. The windows cost $2 each and are known as Vitaglass windows. They allow the rays of the sun to penetrate without losing any of their vital force. Ordinary window glass does not transmit this vital force of the sun's rays.

The operating rooms are entirely modern. The walls are in pale green tile, and the supply of surgical instruments is complete. One of the operating rooms has a special balcony for observers of the operation. "We believe this will prove very convenient," Father Bourke said. "So often students or friends of the patient want to witness an operation, and the doctors can't have them standing around when they are working. With this raised platform, built in, the witnesses will be placed so that they can see and the doctors will be unhampered." The other operating rooms have sets of steps from which two students can witness the operation.

Install Sterilizing Plant

A large sterilizing plant has been installed, which will prevent any chance of steam burns to the operators. The whole plant is in a cabinet, with handles on the outside for its control. There is thus no necessity for anyone's getting into the direct contact with the steaming water.

Doctor's consulting rooms, wash-rooms and shower baths are all complete. The wash rooms are novel in their employment of a handle pressed by the knee to turn on the water, doing away with the necessity of the doctor's handling a faucet. The waste is also worked with the knee. Waiting rooms and offices are all comfortably and charmingly appointed.

Each floor has a lovely sun room, with wicker furniture and windows on three sides. These rest rooms are done in the same good taste as the bedrooms. The floors are constructed without sharp corners. They are rounded up at the sides and in the corners, so that dust may be more easily removed.

A dining room in the basement is provided for the nurses and doctors, and the kitchen equipment is thoroughly modern.

LITERARY CLUB TALKS OF CAMPS

Boys camps and vacation trips were the very timely subjects to be considered by the Woman's Literary club at their meeting Tuesday afternoon in the Community House. The American Home department of the club, counting those two topics as important spring themes in the modern home, secured Rev. Robert M. Atkins, pastor of the First Methodist Church, to speak about boy's camps and what they accomplish. Earl G. Potter to tell some of his conclusions as to the benefits which might be derived from vacation trips.

Masons To Attend Grand Convention

Four members of Birmingham chapter, N. 93, Royal Arch Masons, will attend the convention of the Grand Chapter, R. A. M. of Michigan, in Grand Rapids Tuesday and Wednesday. Burnett J. Merrow, high priest, Ralph Bricker, king, Ralph Wilson, scribe, and Morris Wattles, past high priest, will represent chapter 93 at the meeting. Monday evening the chapter will confer the mark master masons' degree on one candidate. Ceremonies will start at 7:30 p.m.

THREE CHAIRMEN NAMED

Three more chairman have been announced for the St. James' Street fair to be held June 25. Mrs. Sam H. Garlick of Bloomfield Village has been appointed chairman of the flower booth. Mrs. W. Nelson Whittemore, of Opdyke road, is chairman of the dairy and delicatessen booth, and Mrs. Melvin J. Kates, of Buckingham road, is chairman of bake sales. Mrs. Earl A. Stone, of Yorkshire road, is general chairman for the fair.
