TWO WORKERS HIT BY AUTO

Village Man Injured When Knocked From Street Car

Twp Birmingham men are recovering today from injuries received yesterday morning when they were struck by an automobile as they stood on the steps of a D. U. R. street car ready to alight on Woodward avenue at the car house. The driver of the auto faces trial on a charge of reckless driving.

Harry Stone, 224 west Lincoln avenue received several fractured ribs and his companion, William Fyfe, 404 Hazel street was knocked to the ground.

The driver of the car, Thomas Houton, 577 Schrewlin avenue, Royal Oak, pleaded not guilty before Justice Floyd S. Buck when arraigned after the accident and will be tried a week from tomorrow.

The victims told police they were on their way to work and attempted to get off the car. The Houton automobile, they said, passed another auto and crashed into the lower step of the street car, where they stood, tearing it off.

police in Detroit, and as mayor, I faithfully used every agency at my disposal to make the sale of liquor unsafe and unprofitable. And I want to say that, despite the finest co-operation from the police and the courts, I was not able to accomplish much in this direction. I have seen the time when, after refusing to grant soft-drink licenses to certain people of questionable charcter, these same people would obtain licenses through and in the name of a friend or a relative."

Tariff Question

The difficulty of a Congress, with the manifold interests that devolve upon those who constitute legislative assemblies, makes it impossible to administer government that meets the approval of a country so large as the United States, stated the Senator. He mentioned the tariff question, saying that tariff legislation was but the protection of American industry and agriculture from foreign invasion, and said that the actual color of our tariff laws was as varied, as unequal, as the demands of individual business concerns could make them. Despite this, he said, it was as good as human selfishness would allow.

"I do not believe that our Federal excise taxes on anything but tobacco should be continued," went on Senator Couzens. "I am amused, too, at the thought and space that some of our greatest newspapers give to the question of a reduction in Federal income taxes; when you stop to think that out of our 115,000,000 or 120,000,000 citizens in the United States, less than 4,000,000 of them pay income taxes, you would think that these newspapers would work for something of more national benefit. On the other hand, I am not in favor of the reduction of too much of our present national income until we are better fixed financially. You will find that the greatest howls made for the reduction in Federal taxes come from special organized interests, whose own pocket-books will be benefited through the reduction."

Senator Couzens, referring to generalities, praised the ability of the American public to refrain from uniting solidly on a specific problem, giving as his reasons the fact that too much unanimity of thought breeds apathy and prevents progress. He declared himself as much as possible; he wants the state to leave hands off each city as much as possible, and for the Federal authorities to refrain from attempts to run the sovereign states, interfering only on questions that affect the nation as a whole.

Senator Couzens will go to Washington in about a month, he said, to prepare for the next session of Congress.

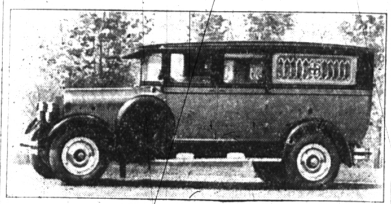
AMBULANCE SERVICE STARTS



Ambulance service is available in Birmingham, following the arrival recently of a new large Sayers & Scovill invalid car, pictured above at the Daniel and Bell Undertaking parlors. This is the first time there has ever been ambulance service in the village.

The new car is specially constructed, with entrances at the side and the rear, so that the patient may be lifted in from either position. The last word in improvement in ambulance cars is present in this one, according to S. O. Wylie Bell, who owns it.

PRIZE OFFERED FIRST INFANT AFTER THEATER

A baby's bed, completely equipped, is the prize to be given the Birmingham baby born at the time nearest the raising of the curtain for the first performance of the Kunsky-Birmingham theater by the Truax Hardware Company, east Maple avenue, according to announcement made today.

Provided the child is a potential Birmingham voter he need not actually be born in the village, it is announced. Any of the neighboring hospitals as the place of birth will not make the infant ineligible for the prize.

Night Classes To Get Under Way Tuesday At Community House

Plans are complete today for the night classes to be held at the Community House beginning Tuesday evening. Registration will take place at 8 p. m. Tuesday, and classes will be formed, according to Mrs. Harrison J. Stringham, of Oakland avenue, who is in charge of them.

Classes in current literature, French, dress making and beginning English and spelling will be given, if there is demand for them, Mrs. Stringham said. Mrs. L. H. Waldrip, of Henrietta street, will be in charge of the class in current literature, and Mrs. A. J. Halgren, of Lakeview avenue, of the French class.

These classes will be held in two terms, of eight weeks each. The first term will end at Christmas time, and the second one will begin after the holiday season and run for eight weeks.

The classes were instituted last year, and met with such success that they were continued this year. Classes in any other subject not already provided, will be given if enough persons desire them, Mrs. Stringham explained.

A cherry tree has been developed in Japan which bears leaves and flowers throughout the entire year.

Ugo Zacchini of Turin, Italy, has invented a cannon from which he permits himself to be shot for a net several yards away.
