TEACHER HURT ON WOODWARD

Edith Rose, Adams Instructor, Struck By Auto As She Leaves Bus

Miss Edith N. Rose, teacher in the Adams School, is recovering today from injuries received when she was struck by an automobile on Woodward avenue and the Twelve Mile road at 2 p. m. Monday. Miss Rose, who lives at 579 Oakwood avenue, Royal Oak, suffered a broken collar bone and minor bruises. She is in the Highland Park General Hospital. Her home is in Carol, Mich. Miss Rose descended from a south-bound bus and walked around behind it directly into the path of a car driven by Joe Laskowski, 5714 Addison avenue, Detroit, according to the Berkeley police. Laskowski who was driving at a rate of about 10 to 15 miles an hour, did not put on his brakes until after he had hit Miss Rose, police said. He was released after making a statement. Mrs. Arthur J. Kane, of Smith avenue, is teaching Miss Rose in the A-third grade, during her absence.

could be eliminated if autoists would not double park. This habit, he says, is an indication of poor citizenship. "It may be practical merely to set aside certain streets and avenues. But eliminating a lot of the double parking, which seems to call for the attention of the city, we anxiously await it." Relative to the character of Birmingham and what he expects of it in the future, the senator said:

Need For Offices, Stores
"Because of its location, between Detroit and Pontiac, there seems to be a need for more office and store space in Birmingham. Merchants from Detroit and Pontiac will want stores and offices here because they can serve a larger territory and because of the fact that Birmingham is the ideal location. It offers them office and, at the same time, does not take them as far away from their clientele that their offices are not available."

Facilities of the finest kind should be developed in Birmingham, he believes. "In this way, residents of the village and of the country hills will not find it necessary to travel to Detroit to do their buying. People usually want to buy at home and if they are given the opportunity they will take advantage of it." "I should like to see Birmingham occupy a larger place on the map of the senator district. Too many are of the opinion that Birmingham, Ala., is the only community of that name."

showing in Franklin were managed by the unfavorable publicity it was given. Now we want the public to come and see the show and decide whether there is anything 'immoral' connected with it." Hooper, June 17, finished the showing of the film in connection with the name of the church. Members of the congregation did not agree with the editor and the film was given in the Community House at Franklin. Hooper smashed the machine with a hammer, was arrested and later put under suspended sentence on a charge of malicious destruction of property. He has resigned from the ministry and is in the real estate business in Detroit.

Mrs. Halgren said. "They are approaching the finest in art and making it available for everyone, after making a statement. We feel that the new theater will be a good influence on both children and their parents. The greatest benefit from the theater may be realized by cooperation between citizens of Birmingham and the officials of the Katsky organization."

Mr. Elderly acted as master of ceremonies and declared the new theater was a large factor in the development of the village. The earliest families in Birmingham settled near the site of the new theater. Mr. Shain said in tracing the history of the site of the theater. "The plot of which this ground is a part was surveyed by Harold Burke and later to be used for a plot was owned by Amos Davis and others who are well known," he said. The full text of the talk is on an inside page.

By keeping people of America happy with the proper kind of recreation, the motion pictures are reviving the glories of civilization, and Mr. Richter said. He asked for cooperation toward making the project a success and declared that the ideal of the theater was to make life better.

Photographs of Birmingham and historical data were included in the box placed in the cornerstone.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Slade and daughter of Detroit visited Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Slade of Franklin over the weekend.

ated by members of the commission. Under the proposed new system, all land will be evaluated under the same method as it is today. The newer way will merely be applied to the buildings. "There are 12 classifications of dwellings," Mr. Moore explained in talking of the proposal. "Each would be taxed according to size as well as material used in construction. Thus, a frame house with a half basement would be assessed at a lower figure than a brick house, the same size, with a full basement. All assessment will be based, of course, on the cubic content under the particular classification of the house."
