MASONS TO START BOWLING LEAGUE

Members Hope To Have Eight Teams; Contests With Other Clubs Are Sought

Plans are under way today for the organization of a bowling league by Birmingham chapter No. 83, Royal Arch Masons. Members of the chapter hope to have eight teams, with certain nights set aside for practice at the new bowling alleys in the Kunsky-Birmingham theater building.

From the eight teams, they expect to pick one team to represent them in outside matches. At the end of the season a trophy, the nature of which has not yet been decided, will be presented to the winning team. Suitable prizes will also be given the individual bowlers having high averages on each team, and to the one having the highest average in the league.

Rowland Forster is chairman of the committee in charge of the league. He is being assisted by William Cassady and Alvin Mudge. Any member interested in joining the league is asked to get in touch with some member of the committee.

pointed out by Mr. Moore that Birmingham's share would be returned in the event that the government here is changed to that of the city form. He also said that the department would be at the disposal of Birmingham just as much as for all other parts of the township.

"We have no fire protection and we must act at once," Mr. Moore said. It is expected that the township board will authorize him within a few days to obtain plans for the proposed building from an architect. The special election probably will be called in October, Mr. Moore believes.

The Hills village, he pointed out, will be paying twice for the project, once in its share of the general tax and the other time when a local taxation equips the department.

Brought To Commission

When the matter was brought to the attention of the Birmingham commission at the meeting Monday night by Commissioner H. J. McBride, President H. T. Ellerby said a recent opinion of Judge Frank L. Doty, former village attorney, was to the effect that since Birmingham already had fire protection it would not be taxable. Mr. Moore said, however, that since Birmingham is a part of the township and would receive benefit from the added facilities, it would be taxable for its share of the cost.

Youngest Booth Registered For School In 1941

notably one from the altar of Christ Church, one from Mr. and Mrs. George Booth, and one from a large furniture house in Detroit. Many other displays, presented by parents and well-wishers, brightened up the halls for the opening day. The estate gardener planted some beautiful beds of flowers on the grounds, and the window boxes were also filled.

The boys were given the morning and part of the afternoon to become accustomed to the rules, and to get acquainted with other students and masters. The dormitories and school building were also open to boys and their parents. The boys soon became good friends, and were wandering about the grounds, examining the buildings, and the statuary, and other objects of interest. One feature was the large armillary sphere, a bronze sundial combined with astrological and geographical information.

The boys were soon seated on the beautiful wooden benches in the main hall overlooking the athletic bowl, and on the stone bench at the fountain. One discussion was overheard in which the boys were waxing hot over the subject of coats for dinner. Dr. Stevens, headmaster, explained that coats will and must be worn at meals.

Homesickness Rare

Only one case of homesickness outwardly shown was recorded, Dr. Stevens said, however, that probably many others were felt. The program in the evening, dispelled much of the homesickness, however.

This program was in the form of a demonstration of model airplanes by Merrill C. Hamburg, an instructor at Jefferson Intermediate school in Detroit. Mr. Hamburg and four boys each brought out model airplanes, and flew them in the auditorium and made short talks. Mr. Hamburg's students hold the world's record in indoor and outdoor motor airplane flying. He is airplane editor of the American Boy and secretary of the Airplane Model League of America. The demonstration lasted until about 9 p. m. when the boys went to bed to dream of the work and fun of tomorrow.
