CONGRATULATIONS, JUDGE DOTY! Together with the rest of Oakland County, Birmingham extends its congratulations and best wishes to Frank L. Doty, newly appointed Circuit Judge.

It is believed that the addition of Judge Doty to the Circuit Court bench will mean much for the cause of liberty and justice in Oakland County. An examination of his life from the days when he struggled through the homely farm chores to gain an education, to the present, provides suitable background for the prophesy that Judge Doty brings to Michigan Judiciary something of those character values that spell the uplift of society.

Entertaining

We tap the choicest of our wine. Set forth a feast both rich and fine. Whence'er we summo' friends to dine.

The cloth we lay with heedful care. Fine china plates on linen fair. Thin goblets and bright silverware.

Then grace our gay and festive board With best of food we can afford. Arrayed in excellent accord.

In gayest mood we feast and chat of clothes, and how to not get fat. The latest books, and this and that.

Shows lately seen, our recent trip. How ill it were that time with grippe. How 's't not so and so a snip?

Our guests comment on every cat. From cocktail to the final vest. Insult their merits can't be beat.

As humble hosts we assume Our culinary feasts to doom. Disparaging all in well feigned gloom.

Then, when the feasting is no more. The chatting ended at the door. We gayly call out 'Au revoir.'

SENATOR COUZENS AND BIRMINGHAM In establishing his offices in Birmingham Senator James Couzens probably is doing more toward stimulating a natural development here than any other person. This, outside of the stimulation his large investments here are already showing.

Following the senator's judgment, many, many persons have already made large investments here with a safe prediction that many more will follow. For a very great number has watched the senator for years and seen that his mistakes were few and that his discernment is exceptionally keen.

It believes that the Birmingham of the future will rival the finest suburban towns of the east and middle west, says, in an interview in this edition of The Eccentric, that self-realization will be brought about the more quickly by those who realize these possibilities and act upon them.

Senator Couzens does not merely talk. He has backed his faith in the future of Birmingham to the extent of total investments estimated at a million dollars. He plans a building for offices and storage which may be eight stories high. Many say Birmingham will not be ready for such a structure for years and years. We venture that they are wrong, and the senator is right.

Not so bad, not so bad. In the realm of politics, as in many other walks of life, the general public amuses itself in much criticism and very little commendation. More especially during the past two generations, this inclination to criticize public officials has been manifest in America.

It is true that an honest public official may appear to be executing a policy of governmental administration that is not in keeping with the wishes of those who elect him; but, in such cases, there is such an official will change his tactics, and how to the will of the people.

Rest assured, then, that the average American public official is fundamentally honest; if this were not so, the United States would not be the world's leading nation today, and our Constitution would have been scrapped years ago.

Economists define taxation as the levying of certain compulsory contributions upon individuals and corporations in order to provide public revenue. The assumed purpose of taxation is to provide public revenue. Its justification is the common benefit which comes from the expenditure of this revenue.
