Young Folk Enjoy Dance In Hills

Cranbrook Affair Marked By Color Of Decoration In Auditorium

"Beautiful" is hardly a sufficient word to describe the dance given by Dr. and Mrs. William O. Friday at Cranbrook School last Friday night for young people of Birmingham and the Hills.

Decorations in the form of silver and colored discs were suspended from the ceiling. Revolving, these were struck by the light of colored spotlights, producing a pretty scintillating effect. A huge school banner was hung behind the orchestra, on the auditorium stage, and smaller flags also in the school colors, blue and silver, were hung about the walls. The programs for the dance were in silver, with the lettering in blue.

Halfway through the evening an intermission was declared, and punch, cakes, and ice cream were served.

In addition to the regular fox-trot and waltzes, a circle fox-trot served as an additional number on the program.

Approximately 50 Birmingham boys and girls attended the colorful affair. Students in the school invited friends from Pontiac, Detroit, Bloomfield Hills, and other communities.

The dance was the second given by Dr. and Mrs. Stevens for the students of the school's third form (ninth grade). One will probably be given at a later date for the younger members of the school, it is planned.
