MISS GEACH WEDS BANKER

Announcement Made Of Nuptials Of Charles B. Randall

The marriage of Miss Mary Geach, of Granville, O., and Charles B. Randall, vice-president of the First National Bank of Birmingham, took place in Granville Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Geach was teacher of mathematics at Baldwin High School from 1917 to 1921, a graduate of Denison University.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Randall left on a two weeks motor trip through the east, after which they will return to Birmingham where they will make their home.

OUR DOROTHY IS DISTRACTED

This is an alibi, and I might just as well be honest about it.

Who has entertained you in Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills this week remains to me a deep mystery; likewise am I in doubt as to what has been occupying my mind; at all. It may be that I failed to try to bother people over the telephone to keep up an event, but telephoning from our office this week was just about as easy as explaining away warm weather.

The procedure has been expedient—and it is not because the bills were not paid, either.

Five steps from my telephone (count'em yourself, see, five!) in the noisiest machine ever invented by man. It is used to tear up Woodward avenue. It has been tearing up the avenue in the one spot all week, and no less; more than usually mistaken, the shovel of the dredge is just about a half mile from China as I write this apology.

I have tried to telephone, but good heavens! I could never hear my phone ring with all the noise. I have tried to listen to a few people, but I can't take it, as a matter of fact, I don't know whether I talk with them or the other way around.

I believe you, who read this page of The Eccentric could help me do something about it. The best solution I can think of is to have the machine turned off. Then, and only then, will we be able to stop going over our pantomime and get down to writing society news. (D. W.)

OLD DAYS RECALLED AT PARTY FOR MOTHER OF MRS. SHAIN

The early days of Birmingham were recalled again in review at the home of Mrs. M. J. Shain when 30 women, all long time residents of this village, were invited to a reception in honor of Mrs. Shain's mother, Mrs. C. R. Root, a former resident of Birmingham, who returned for a visit from her home at Los Angeles, Cal.

The places of honor were shared by seven women of the village, all of whom have lived here for at least 70 years.

The days before street car transportation were recalled; the early schools of Birmingham when reading, writing and arithmetic really meant something, and the dances at the various centers of recreation in Birmingham.

Since she has been here, she and Shain, took an airplane ride from the Ford airport.

Those villagers who had lived in Birmingham for 70 years or more included: Mrs. M. J. Shain; Mrs. Snow; Miss Julia Post; Mrs. Hannah Ellsworth; Miss Mary Utter; Miss Susan Trowbridge; Mrs. Frank Hagerman; and Mrs. Henry Benedict.

Twenty-one other guests, who had long been residents of Birmingham, wrote their names in the guest book provided by Mrs. Shain. They were: Mrs. W. B. Carter; Mrs. Ross Carpenter; Mrs. Anna Parks; Mrs. D. M. Johnson; Mrs. George Mitchell; Mrs. E. R. Smith; Mrs. M. H. Shain; Mrs. Myra Bassett; Mrs. Flora Mulder; Mrs. Emma Montgomery; Mrs. Bert Peabody; Mrs. Elizabeth Tharley; Miss Gertrude Hagerman; Mrs. Austin Ford; Mrs. Charles Knowles; Mrs. Hattie Schlaack; Mrs. Henry Berry; Miss Daisy Benedict; Mrs. John Berry; Mrs. Bert Jackson; and Mrs. James Todd.

BIRMINGHAM FOLK BUILD IN FRANKLIN

Plans are being prepared today for the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Miller, 1390 Yorkshire road, Birmingham, who recently purchased a home site in Franklin Village, property which is being developed by George Wellington Smith. The architects who are drawing the blue prints are Moulton & Farrar of Detroit. Work on the new residence will start soon after the acceptance of the architect's work, it is reported.

Early morning hound work is to start at the Bloomfield Open Hunt club beginning Saturday, Aug. 18. The hounds will leave the kennels at 5 a. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays for early morning hound work, except on Saturday, Aug. 25, the day of the Hunters Breeders' Show, according to announcement made today by E. S. Nichols, president of the club.
