

One Approved In Home Building

An interesting sidelight on some of the newer types of home construction was developed through Mr. A. H. Oberbeck of the Packard-Charlton Building Company of Birmingham. This company is building a new house in the Myerling Lane company's Birmingham Highlands on West Maple Road, Birmingham, on a site purchased through Ralph Manuel, who represents both parties in the transaction. Mr. Oberbeck points out that whereas in the past it was thought that stone was the formal and cold for dwellings, now such is not the case.

The stone used by this company is of variegated color and available in many sizes of 12, 16 and 20 inches. The cost is very little in excess of brick on frame construction, and in some cases is much less. Many beautiful homes are now being built with the building of

WE HEARD IT SAID BY

Malcolm Hunt, justice of the peace: "I believe that the village commission should pass an ordinance prohibiting signs extending over the sidewalk, except in the case of electric signs."

The patient persistence of Mr. Edsel Ford and Mr. Oscar Weber are two of the interesting examples of what can be done with this "crazy" town. However, small houses as well as the more pretentious are now being constructed of the material. Stone is practical as well as beautiful, economical and is a very pleasing departure from the old type of construction.
