Fashion Camouflages Larger Waist and Feet

By LUCY CLAIRE
Fashion Expert for Central Press and The Eccentric

With due respect to the normal waistline exploited at the Paris openings last August, we are still grinding our skirts or blouses at the top of the hips, or dropping back to the discreet drapes posed low on the skirt. Moreover we are still clinging to the corrected effect of the straight from the shoulder line, confining the hips with no effort whatever toward marking the normal waistline. It's too late in the game, after all these years of freedom from the normal waistline, to bring it back, even in a rear approach. The waistline has increased from an 18 to a 24 or 26, just as the average female foot has increased from a four to a six shoe. Emanation from small feet and hour glass figures has brought with it a lasting vogue for comfort. Softer materials in clothing and softer leathers, like kidskin, simpler lines and lighter weights, all tend toward comfort as well as a less voluminous effect, to obviate the increased waistline and larger foot.

The uneven hemline, that dernier cri from Paris a short time ago, has not been as readily accepted as was prophesied. It is now relegated to frocks for formal afternoon or evening wear. Women still cling to the sports type models for all else. Unless one is going somewhere that requires a taxi, the raggedy hemline looks badly under the even hemline coat. So for informal dress wear the even skirt line is still the vogue, quite the thing for the afternoon bridge, tea or even the informal evening dance, if one so desires.

Two Practical Frocks.
Two very practical frocks of this type are shown in the photographs. The first is of moiré molly's crepe. It is fashioned with a slightly bloused effect above a band of the crepe of the reverse side, confining the hips. The skirt is box pleated all around, stitched down well over the hips. The all around pleated skirt is coming back into vogue now that the skirt fullness is dropped lower, and pleats are stitched well over the hips. The pleats stay in better. That is the secret of their success.

The second model is a simple little frock of tissue velvet printed in small orange and beige figures on a black ground. The circular skirt hangs from a diagonal yoke, which gives the confined hipline. The circular movement is much used in these velvet models where pleats would be impractical. You will notice there is a slight dip movement to the blouse. Black kid pumps are worn with this model. The pump has lost none of its popularity for this type of dressy frock, and black kid, according to arbiters of fashion, now leads all leathers for black shoes.

The third model is an all cloth sports ensemble showing the correct treatment now sponsored in the latest models. The coat is of botany sports flannel, and is lined with an orange, tan and brown plaid cloth, matching the ensemble blouse. The long, generous scarf is lined with the plaid. The little sports hat is of brown felt, the color of the coat, and the strap shoes are of brown kid.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

MENU HINT
Hungarian Goulash Escalloped Parsnips Spinach
Sauce Christmas Salad
Canned Cherry Pie Coffee

The recipe for Hungarian Goulash was submitted by a native of the land where it originated. My own special recipe calls for many more vegetables.

Today's Recipes
Hungarian Goulash — Brown three large sliced onions in three tablespoons of fat, add a pound of lean beef and one pound of lean veal, cut in comparatively large slices. Next add two spoonful of salt, and a half teaspoonful of sweet paprika; cook very slowly until half done. Then add four medium-sized potatoes, diced, cover with cold water, and cook till tender. This is Hungary's national dish.

Suggestions
Cheap Tree Trimmings
Here is a cheap and interesting way to make Christmas tree decorations. A housewife writes: "I save all my egg shells for about two months before Christmas, making a small opening at each end of the shell and blowing out the egg. Then the children and I paint the shells in various colors and ends of paint or lacquer, cut out little stars of tinfoil and glue them on the shells. When these are strung they make attractive tree decorations."

Animal Auto Game.
While taking long auto trips, children become tired of scenery, so divide the number of children evenly, so many on one side, so many on the other, and set them to counting the animals on either side of the road. Horses count 10, deer count 20, and pig count five. Game counting to 200. Even grownups become interested.

After her graduation from the University of Arkansas, Miss Martha Parnell, daughter of Governor and Mrs. Harvey S. Parnell, of Little Rock, plans to become a dietitian. She is 18 years old and a freshman.

Egg Toast
Prepare the toast in the same way as for the milk toast. Heat a quart of milk, adding the salt, sugar and butter, and when at boiling point turn it onto the beaten yolks of two eggs. Stir until blended and thickened, then pour over the toast, being sure it covers each slice in the dish. Cover and serve at once. Orange marmalade is good with this toast.

How to Achieve Beauty

by HELENA RUBINSTEIN

I'm sure I do not have to tell you the importance of cleansing. I have always marked it as the first step to beauty, and so must be you. Remember, the skin that is not hygienically clean cannot be beautiful. So begin by marking off a short interval during the day. Hang a "Do Not Disturb" sign on your bedroom door, and start in on the path to beauty. Pin a towel securely around your head, Turkish fashion, and be sure to tuck all the little wisps of hair well out of the cream's way. Then, with your finger tips, apply your cleansing and massage cream in generous motions. Try to learn the technique of applying with the three fingers. Use three broad strokes to distribute the cream, the first going from the center of the chin to a point just below the ears. The second starts at the central bone of the nose and spreads over the cheeks. The third is across the forehead. The cream is then more thoroughly distributed and worked in, with the cushions of the third and fourth fingers working always in a spiral circular movement, with light outward and upward trend. Whatever pressure is used should be an "upward lift" on the lower away of your circles, thus giving a "bracing" but not a pulling tendency to the stroke. To remove the cream use squares of old linen or soft cotton; or better still, the sanitary, dainty and practical little cleansing tissues which have sprung into such universal favor of late. Be sure these strokes, too, are circular and upward and outward. Now your face is scientifically clean, and if you've followed directions exactly, it not only looks it, but it feels it, too. And that's all there is to the First Step to Beauty!

NO FAIR!
Two veterans of the Civil war were conversing about their battles. One was a former Confederate and the other a Yankee. "I tell ye," bragged the Confederate, "we could have licked you Yankees with cornstarch." "Then why didn't ye?" bellowed the northerner. "Cause you danged Yankees wouldn't fight that way."
