400 FRIENDS LAUD BROOKS AT BANQUET

Homage Paid Young Flier By Birmingham People, Ford Officials

MRS. LINDBERGH HERE

Approximately 400 persons from Birmingham and surrounding territory attended the dinner given in honor of Harry Brooks, chief test pilot of the aircraft division of the Ford Motor company, at the Oakland Hills Country club Friday night as a testimonial to the accomplishments of the 25-year-old flier. Mrs. Evangeline L. L. Lindbergh, William B. Mayo, chief engineer of the Ford Motor company, William B. Stout, head of the aircraft division of the company and Ray Dahlinger, superintendent of the experimental department, were among the distinguished out of town guests at the head table.

A large silver trophy, an aviator with a propeller in his arm outlined at its top, was presented to Mr. Brooks. The inscription on the trophy was, "Birmingham Citizens Appreciation Trophy; Harry Brooks as a tribute to his efforts in advancing the science of aviation." The presentation was made for the people of Birmingham by Clarence Vliet, superintendent of schools and a former teacher of Mr. Brooks when he attended the Baldwin High School.

The testimonial dinner was under the auspices of the Birmingham Exchange club and other service clubs of the village. It was intended as a tribute to the aviator who recently returned from the history-making trip to Mexico in recognition of his accomplishments.

Praise Brooks

High commendation was paid to the ability of the flier by the speakers. His modesty, faithfulness and skill were commented upon by his associates and friends.

New facts concerning the trip to Mexico were revealed by Mr. Stout who was one of the members of the party piloted by Brooks. Throughout the thrilling return voyage, when heavy snow storms forced the pilot to make two hurried landings, Mr. Brooks, who had the complete responsibility of the safety of the passengers, proved himself one of the most capable pilots in the country, Mr. Stout said.

Brooks, throughout the talks, appeared bashful, as if he were enjoying the affair thoroughly, but wished it was in honor of someone else.

"In accepting the trophy he said, "I can't tell you how grateful I am for the honor bestowed upon me this evening. I am unable to. All I can say is, I thank you."

He was loudly cheered and applauded as was every commendation of the flier made by the other speakers.

His parents, Supervisor and Mrs. Joseph Brooks of Southfield Township were at the speakers' table next to Harry Brooks. Others at the table, besides Mrs. Lindbergh and the Ford officials, were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bingham, Mr. and Mrs. Vliet, H. T. Ellerby, village president and Mrs. Ellerby, and Miss Margaret Bell of east Maple avenue, a former student of the aviator.

Mrs. Lindbergh accepted an introduction from Mr. Ellerby who said she was "America's most popular mother." She did not speak, however. Many times, the mother of the famous, Col. Charles Lindbergh, showed her agreement with the compliments paid Brooks, by a knowing look. She was dressed in a black velvet gown and wore a string of pearls. A white silk scarf was thrown over her shoulders. The general impression of those who viewed Mrs. Lindbergh for the first time was that the newspaper photographs of her did not do justice. Her features appear almost perfect and their is a calm air of

REPORTER IS FORCED TO ACCEPT APPLAUSE

Tables were turned on one newspaper man at the testimonial banquet at the Oakland Hills Country club Friday night for Harry Brooks. As a general rule, when everyone is applauding, a newspaper man takes notes, fast and furiously. Friday, however, a reporter was obliged to stand and accept applause. He is James V. Piersol, aviation editor of the Detroit News. William B. Stout told how Piersol, hearing at the Detroit airport of the record landing of the party returning from Mexico, at Edwardsburgh, enlisted the aid of a passenger train conductor, a friendly train and finally a snow plough to arrive at Edwardsburgh and "get the story." It kept him up all night but he was able to "make" the morning edition with the news.

HARRY BROOKS

"Why, I remember Harry when he was just a youngster and we used to kid him about his airplanes."

"That's nothing. I remember him when he took his first flight."

This is the way the "I remember whens" had it at the banquet in honor of Birmingham's foremost aviator—and, incidentally one of the country's foremost aviators—at the Oakland Hills Country club Friday night when Harry Brooks was presented with a large trophy from the citizens of Birmingham.

Most of the 360 persons present remembered the young man from the time he used slowly to plod to the Baldwin High School previous to the June of 1921 when he was graduated from that school.

They remembered when he collected material for his first plane, wires and pieces of board and finally parts of the engine. And recollections took on fresh garb as they were narrated by those in the crowd. Many of his former associates scoffed to vie for the most interesting recollection as they discussed the young man at the banquet table.

But Harry Brooks, still avid from his trip to Mexico with Mrs. Evangeline L. Lindbergh and several officials of the Ford Motor company, all of whom were guests at the dinner, appeared oblivious to the fact that he had done anything out of the ordinary. When the speakers praised him, he grew red and squirmed in his chair. A village was paying homage to a hero and the hero was good and bashful about the whole affair.

The modesty that has characterized him from those early years when, as a student of the Baldwin High School, he built his first airplane, asserted itself again at the banquet. When called upon to speak, instead of telling of his accomplishments, he appeared almost overcome with emotion. He said, simply, "I can't tell you how grateful I am for the honor you have bestowed upon me this evening. I am unable to. All I can say is—I can thank you."

Mrs. Lindbergh, seated at the head table with Brooks and the other honor guests, looked knowingly at him as the crowds cheered and applauded these words. She has seen her own son, the famous Col. Charles Lindbergh, do similar things. She knows of what stuff people are made who can be heros and make light of it.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brooks, parents of Harry, were beaming throughout the dinner. It was a big moment in the lives of the parents as in the life of the son. They were sincerely happy and so would every parent be happy in their place.

Clarence Vliet, superintendent of schools, said, "Harry was always a model in school. He was determined to learn all he could about aviation. He was considerate of others and modest of his achievements."

HILLS DENIES APARTMENT

Board Of Appeals Decides Against Multiple Dwelling

The board of appeals of Bloomfield Hills village, voted unanimously Friday night as a special meeting against allowing the Louis Savage company of Detroit the right to set aside the clause of the zoning ordinance against apartments in the hills and proceed with the construction of a proposed multiple dwelling. In denying the company a building permit, the board did not announced following the meeting.

The zoning ordinance requires all proposed builders to obtain the approval of 75 percent of the property owners in the neighborhood of the proposed dwelling. When the owners object to the building, the board of appeals hears both sides of the question.

In this case, 23 of the 30 property owners objected.

PUBLIC AID ASKED IN CLOSING 'PIGS'

Speakers At Church See Good In Prohibition Law As Anniversary Is Observed

As part of a nation-wide observance of the eighth anniversary of the passage of the Eighteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution, popularly known as the prohibition law, Birmingham's First Methodist Episcopal Church Sunday afternoon listened to talks by three local citizens. Harold T. Ellerby, village president presided at the service.

Mr. Ellerby, in commenting on the talks near the close of the service, made a plea for the co-operation of the public in the enforcement of the prohibition law here, and pointed out that Birmingham's police department is definitely certain of the addresses of at least four blind pigs in the village, but is unable to close them up because of an inability to get a search warrant. He said that, in order to get a search warrant to enter private premises, it was necessary first to make a "buy," which procedure was difficult on the part of policemen.

George R. Averill, publisher of The Eccentric, was the first speaker on the "program." He declared that society, capable of attaining an abundance of health, happiness, and prosperity under complete Christianity, would be as far from this goal as the impediments of human avarice, greed, and lust that it manifested. He held that the human race,

QUESTION OF BAN UP AT CITY MEET TONIGHT

The city-village committee meets at 8 p. m. today in the village offices to continue the study of the proposed change to a city government. Whether the public and press will be barred from the meeting was not decided up till late last night. Several members of the group, however, declared the public had a right to attend the meetings and said they should attempt to rescind the recent ruling which bars them.

FORCE TO ADD MORE FIREMEN

Two Additional Full Time Men Approved by Village Commission

Two additional firemen to the full-time force of the Birmingham fire department are to be employed at an early date, following approval given to Manager James W. Parry and Fire Chief William G. Olsen, Monday night at the meeting of the village commission.

That the present full-time force of four men is inadequate to care properly for village fire protection is the claim made by Chief Olsen at the meeting.

He explained that the present force works in two shifts. When one man is out on inspection work, the other is forced to leave the station unattended at times, he said.

"The village really needs eight full-time members of the department but we can get along with six through this year," said the chief.

The full time force of four men has been in operation since last August.

Chief Olsen further pointed out that since the department has been stationed in its new quarters on Brownell street it is less accessible for the volunteers and there is more chance of the station having to be left unattended until the force is augmented.

INSTRUCTOR SEES LABORATORY NEED

Every industry should have an experimental laboratory because of the manner in which new chemical devices are affecting business.

This was the conclusion reached by W. S. Toothacker, instructor in the science department of the Baldwin High School in an address Wednesday noon to members of the Young Mens Service club.

Plans were discussed for the dinner dance to be held at Northwood Inn Feb. 10 by the club for members.

DATES DECIDED FOR NEW DRIVE

Community House Campaign Starts April 15; Goal Not Set

According to a decision announced this week by the Community House board, the campaign for funds to construct a new building on their corner lot at Bates and Townsend streets is scheduled to begin April 15 and close about the middle of May. The special gifts committee will start the campaign with two weeks of intensive work, the general committee to fall in line on April 28, the Community House birthday, and the whole campaign to close about two weeks later.

Mrs. C. R. Wilson, who has been in charge of the plans for the organizing of the campaign, will assume the direction of the drive, Mrs. Charles Shain to continue with the work of organization during the winter months in Mrs. Wilson's place.

Announcement of the date of the campaign follows a series of conferences between the executive board, Mrs. Wilson's growing committees and the architects, Muehlmann and Farrar.

The plans for the building, the amount of the financial goal, and the general plan for financing the building are still under discussion.

The members of the executive board and all of the auxiliary boards of the Community House, including the organization committee for the new building campaign, will meet Jan. 31 for a pot luck supper in the Community House, preceding the annual meeting of the Community House association in the evening.

TWO MORE IN ELECTION RACE

Three Now Seek Bloomfield Treasurer's Office; Marlotte, Carter In Race

Petitions for two new candidates for the office of Bloomfield Township treasurer are in circulation today. This brings the total candidates for the office up to date to three.

Petitions are out for Iva Marlotte, 539 Pierce street, member of the library and Community House boards and former president of the Woman's Literary club and for Cassius Carter, 113 George street, contractor. They would succeed L. Virginia Hewitt who retires from the treasurer's office. A petition for this office has already been filed for Harriet Mudge, who has been an employe in the township office for four years.

Petitions are filed for the nominations of all other present office holders in the township to be brought up at the primary elections March 7. The officials are: Robert Y. Moore, supervisor; James V. Bayley, clerk; Rolla J. Coryell, justice of the peace, and John E. Wilson, highway commissioner.

All petitions are required to be filed before 5 p. m. Feb. 16.

FATHER-SON WEEK PLAN ANNOUNCED

Details Of Annual Week To Be Worked Out Today; Start Scheduled For Feb. 6.

Plans for the observance of the annual Father and Son Week in Birmingham and Southern Oakland County were to be worked out today at a meeting to be held in the Royal Oak Township hall of officials of the Y. M. C. A. under whose auspices the observance will be held.

The week is to be started Feb. 6 and several events of interest to both fathers and their sons will be provided, according to Delaney T. Lund, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. here.

ORDER PAVING ON BLOOMFIELD

Objections and suggestions on the levying of taxes for the paving of Bloomfield Court from Woodward avenue to the east line of lots 10 and 11 will be heard at the village commission meeting Jan. 30. Cost of the paving and the installation of water main and sewer is $6,750, according to estimates by Manager James W. Parry.

The village at large would stand one-sixth of the cost and the affected areas the other five-sixths, according to a resolution passed last Monday night.

This action of the commission brings to an end a long controversy on the paving of the court.

Gov. Fred W. Green To Be Guest Here At Banquet

Gov. Fred W. Green is to be the honor guest at the dinner Jan. 24 at the Bloomfield Hills Country club, according to announcement from a group of Pontiac citizens who are arranging the affair. Frank F. Rogers, state highway commissioner also will be present.

City Manager J. W. Ham of Pontiac is chairman of the affair. The dinner is in the nature of a testimonial of appreciation for the work done by the state in widening Saginaw street in Pontiac.

PLAYS PLEASE VILLAGE GROUP

Regular Performance Of Theatrical Crowd Given In Packed House

Before a packed house, with standing room at a premium, Birmingham's Village Players Tuesday night gave three one-act plays. The event was the monthly presentation of plays, rehearsals for which have been going on for the past three weeks.

During an intermission, a short business meeting was conducted by Leigh Lynch, president of the Players. A motion to increase the membership from 225 to 250, to allow part of the waiting list of 70 to enter, was tabled until the June meeting. Miss Jessie Bonstelle and Jack Gaffney were accepted as honorary members.

"Murder Will Out," written by C. C. Winningham, of Bloomfield Hills Village, and directed by Mrs. Laura Lynch, was well acted by Ned Shattuck, as George Babbitt, James Oliver as Junior, and Mrs. Louise Averill as Mrs. Babbitt.

Robert Diserens, of Riveroak avenue, gave an excellent portrayal of a French nobleman in "Indian Summer," written by Barrett Clark, and directed by Mrs. Glen Rayman. Kenneth Bingham, as Noel, Mrs. Barbara Withee as Adrienne, and Mrs. Leonne Chamberlain as the housekeeper, completed the cast in this delightful, humorous romance.

Mrs. Deborah Gafill, as Aunt Marietta, a sweet and unsophisticated person from the rural places provided the atmosphere of a farm for "The Teeth of the Gift Horse," written by Margaret Cameron and directed by Mrs. Ada Moore. Ruth Baldwin, as the wife of Richard Dort, played by John Gordon; Mrs. Helen Stauch and Spencer Withee, as friends of the Butlers, and Mrs. Elizabeth Hadjisky, as Katie the maid, completed the cast.

Fletcher D. Richards, assisted by Charles E. Asper, J. N. Hadjisky, Ben G. Wall, Harry Klein, and Rolfe Spinning, were in charge of the stage. Properties were handled by Hendrik Brusse, Dave Ballentine, George R. Averill, and Mrs. Marjorie Theman, under the direction of Carl Bradt.

Mrs. Katherine Williams, assisted by Mrs. Alice Healy, Mrs. Laura Burnett and Mrs. Julia Klingensmith, provided refreshments.

TRAFFIC SURVEY ASKED BY BOARD

White Declares Signal Lights Control Should Be Based On Facts

Following a resolution adopted by the village commission on motion of Commissioner Lee A. White, Village Manager James W. Parry and Police Chief James Anderson today have instructions to make a complete check on the Woodward avenue traffic signals and, on the basis of their findings, regulate the lights to insure the greatest amount of public safety.

In commenting on the resolution, Mr. White said, "My position is not one of opposition to the lights but rather to the method of their operation which is based largely upon guess work." He said he believed the light at Woodward and Oakland avenues was operated with less regard for traffic contingencies than any of the other lights.

Police are ordered to make a general traffic survey on the corners protected by traffic lights.

AUTO AGENCY TO OPEN HERE

Announcement is made today of plans for the formal opening of a new Whippet and Willys Knight agency at 595 north Woodward avenue Friday and Saturday by Arthur Stone & company.

Mr. Stone who will be in active charge of the organization is a well known member of the $100,000 a year club, having sold that amount of automobiles for several years. He has been in the automobile business for more than 10 years.

"We feel that the possibilities of Birmingham are unlimited," he said, "The village has a great future and we are more than pleased to be located here."

NEW ENGINEER TAKES OFFICE

Bloomfield Township Starts Department; L. B. Reid Appointed

Lloyd B. Reid, is in office today as engineer for Bloomfield Township as the new engineering department of the township gets under way.

The department was created by the board recently when it was deemed necessary because of the rapid growth of the township and the increased engineering work that followed the growth.

Mr. Reid is a graduate of the Baldwin High School and of the University of Michigan. He is 27 years old, married, and lives at 810 Chester street.

Mr. Reid comes to the township office after experience in the city engineering department of Pontiac. He also has done engineering work for the state since the completion of his education at Ann Arbor.

We feel that the township will readily save money by the creation of this department but more time will be given to the necessary work," said Rolla J. Coryell, president of the township board in commenting on the appointment.

"While the township has been highly satisfied with the engineering done in the past, a full-time engineer is a necessity. We feel that we shall have the department's service all the time for practically the same cost as the time of an outside engineer."

He declared Mr. Reid comes to the township highly recommended and that he has proved himself capable.

He will be located in the township office in Bloomfield Hills for the next few months.

FIRE DESTROYS RESIDENCE HERE

Firemen Save Second Structure From Spreading Flames; Origin a Mystery

Origin of fire which destroyed a frame house on east Maple road between the Monnier and Crooks roads Monday noon remains a mystery today. Several hundred dollars worth of furniture and clothing were destroyed in the blaze. They were the property of Steven Clink.

Timely arrival of the Birmingham fire department saved the house adjacent from being destroyed by the spreading flames. This residence is also owned by Mr. Clink. He and his family used the smaller house, which was destroyed, for sleeping purposes and living quarters were in the residence which the firemen saved.

A strong wind aided the spread of the flames and considerable effort was called forth to hold them to the one building.

The content of the house was covered by insurance.

Potatoes, which caught on fire in the kitchen oven of Miss D. Akroyd, 1026 Pierce street, resulted in firemen being called at 7:05 p. m. Monday. No damage was done.

An oven fire at the home of E. W. Chapin, 300 Ferndale avenue at 8:15 a. m. Wednesday brought firemen from the fire station. Their arrival prevented the spread of flames and no damage was reported.

FORMER RECTOR'S MOTHER IS DEAD

Mrs. Helen L. McCurdy Dies At Romeo; Srvices Held Tuesday

Funeral services were held Tuesday for Mrs. Helen L. McCurdy, mother of the Rev. Charles H. McCurdy, former rector of the St. James Episcopal Church here. The services were held at the Birmingham church and the body was placed in a vault at the Woodmere cemetery until spring when it will be taken to Bangor, Me., for burial. Bangor was the birthplace of Mrs. McCurdy.

Mrs. McCurdy had lived in Birmingham 10 years. She was 83 years old. When her husband was the pulpit of the St. James Church she came to Birmingham with him from Boston.

The Rev. McCurdy resigned a year ago from the pulpit of the church to become active as head of the Batchelder school for boys at Romeo.

The Rev. Warner Forsyth, rector of the St. James Church, and the Rev. W. R. Blanchard, rector of the Royal Oak Episcopal Church, officiated at the funeral services.

Traffic Halted, Autos Wrecked In Ice Carnival

Ice which covered Birmingham streets Monday noon caused more than 20 accidents and made the hill on north Woodward avenue impassable for more than an hour. Several truck loads of sand were dumped on the slippery pavement before traffic could negotiate the hill.

No one was injured in the accidents but several hundreds of dollars worth of damage was done to the many autos which collided in a great carnival of ice at the foot of the hill.

Four large body trucks with trailers were marooned on lawns at different points along the hill. Three of them were badly damaged from colliding with trees and other cars.

Great masses of traffic, helpless on the slippery streets, were stalled at the hill and Woodward avenue at Maple for an hour was littered with cars which were not allowed to attempt the descent. It took police, under Chief James Anderson, almost an hour to straighten out the tangled mass of cars.

A large creamery truck, with a trailer attached, descended the hill sideways, narrowly avoiding cars which scurried to the sidewalks in the attempt to escape collision.

Rain which fell for an hour around noon froze as soon as it struck the pavement and even the lawns were so slippery that walking on them was difficult.

Other minor accidents were reported in different parts of the village before sand could be spread on the streets.

WIDER MAPLE COSTS SOUGHT

Project Calls For Diversion Of River Rouge; Would Take Three Years

First steps on the widening of west Maple avenue between the River Rouge and Southfield avenue are under way today by James W. Parry, village manager, who has instructions to prepare maps and diagrams and an estimate of the cost. Tentative plans call for increasing the width of the roadway from 24 to 40 feet.

It is estimated the project will take two years to complete. It is for the diversion of the River Rouge for several feet, filling in the former river bed with earth and the removal of trees between Southfield avenue and the bridge.

Work on the widening is planned to start in the spring, however, Mr. Parry said, if the commission approves the widening.

BANKS SHOW BIG INCREASE

Prosperity Forecast By Annual Report; First National Boosted Half-Million

All Birmingham banks show a substantial gain in business for the past year in statements issued this week. That prosperity is continuing in Birmingham at an even greater rate than in the past is shown in the reports.

The First National Bank reports an increase of more than a half million dollars in deposits for the year. The total resources of the bank are given as $3,307,612. An increase of more than $415,000 is shown in the savings deposits while in the commercial deposits, more than $132,000 increase is reported. The capital, surplus and undivided profits of the First National Bank amount to $401,558.31.

The First State Savings Bank announces its resources at $3,289,425. A gain over the past year of approximately $350,000 is shown in this report. Deposits in the bank increased more than $250,000, the report shows.

The Birmingham Savings Bank which was organized in September, starts on Dec. 1, a total deposit of $458,506.82. The report of Oct. 10 for the bank showed $181,182.01 was deposited.

All officers were reelected Friday at the First State Bank. They are: Frank Hagerman, president; Thomas H. Cobb, vice-president; Arthur C. Peck, cashier; Robert C. Peck, assistant cashier; and Barnard A. Shrock, assistant cashier.

MANSON RESIGNS FROM PLAN BOARD

E. L. Manson, 118 Park street, has tendered his resignation as a member of the village planning commission, it became known yesterday. Mr. Manson gave the stress of private business as the reason for the resignation. The village commission is expected to act on the resignation next Monday.

EXPECT START OF MUNICIPAL BUILDING SOON

Contracts Let, All Property Purchased And No Hindrances Seen

BIG SAVING EXPECTED

Start of the new municipal building on the civic center is seen for February following the purchase of the two pieces of property in the second block of the center and the award of contracts this week.

Bids are to be sought by the village on the removal of seven houses on Martin and Merrill, streets and they will be received Jan. 30. Advertising of the bids followed closely upon the purchase of 40 feet of land on Merrill street from Viger Spicer for $16,000 and 80 feet at Martin and Henrietta streets from Chancey Nixon for $25,000. These were the last two unacquired pieces of land in the second block of the civic center and their purchase by the village leaves the block free for the construction of the building.

Contracts for the construction were awarded by the commission Monday night to the Henry M. Martens company of Detroit who submitted the lowest base bid, the Pontiac Electric Armature company; and to Fred Douglas of Birmingham for the plumbing.

Passes By 4-3 Vote

This action followed the passing of a resolution submitted by Commissioner Scott Hersey for the purchase of the unacquired land. Both resolutions carried by a vote of four to three. President H. T. Ellerby and Commissioners Lee A. White and Hope Halgren backed Mr. Hersey's plan but it was opposed by Commissioners W. W. Henry, Laurence Hulbert and H. J. McBride.

Immediate action on the removal of the buildings and the start of excavation is expected to save the village a great amount of money on building material and labor, according to Mr. Hersey. It is generally estimated that within a few months the bids on the construction would be from 10 to 15 percent higher.

In the event the bids for the removal of the houses are not as high as expected, plans are under way whereby a group of citizens, under the direction of Harry Allen, attorney of Southfield avenue, will act for the village, it is understood. Mr. Allen did not discuss details of the plans, declaring everything depended upon the bids and that until they had been received, nothing definite could be done.

Terms of the property purchase called for paying Mr. Nixon $5,000 with the signing of the contract and the balance of $20,000 on April 1. Mr. Spicer received $3,200 when the contract was signed and will receive the same amount in payments until the total of $16,000 is paid.

Hersey Explains

In protesting against the purchase, Mr. McBride said, the village would be purchasing land for which there were not funds available and that it would be burdening the commission which succeeds the present board.

Mr. Hersey declared that while the village had voted $40,000 for a fire station more than a year and a half ago, and had obtained $125,000 from municipal property at Woodward and Maple avenues, nothing had been done with the money. Money from the Woodward avenue property was to be used for the municipal building. Plans for the new building call for the inclusion of the fire station and police department.

That the village does not need a municipal building was the contention of Mr. Hulbert when he voted against purchase of the land. Mr. Henry said he was of the same opinion.
