MISS COUZENS WEDS IN HILLS

Daughter Of Senator James Couzens Becomes Bride At Wabash

Miss Madeline Couzens, eldest daughter of Senator James Couzens, and William Rumer Yaw, of Detroit, were married Monday at Wabash, the new Bloomfield Hills home of the senator.

The engagement of Miss Couzens and Mr. Yaw was announced last October when Miss Couzens was still a student at George Washington University, in Washington, D. C., studying law. It was assumed by friends that the marriage would not take place until Miss Couzens' graduation next June.

The couple will live at the Hibbard Apartments, 5015 East Jefferson avenue, Detroit.

Application for the marriage license was filed at the Washtenaw County marriage license office last Monday and was given out Friday. A reception at the senator's town house on Longfellow avenue

SCHOOLS CALL YOUNGER SET

Birmingham Students Return To Various Colleges As Holidays End

With the close of the holiday season the college and university students are sending their way back to their respective schools. The holidays have been gay, with dancing, parties, teas and receptions in honor of the school sets who remain at home will not look forward to the spring vacation when they again will entertain their young people.

Among those who are returning to Michigan State College are Miss Elizabeth Bevel, Louise Bergman, Miss Margy Lipka, a bride-elect, Miss Margaret Telford Lawrence Smith, Miss Margaret Smith, Donner Waterman, Stanley B. Hunt, Parks Watson and Rossman Smith.

Miss Elizabeth Bevel, carrier for Sewitt-Fredrick Whittlesy, Forbes Hasall, Donald S. Bell, S. Weir Burkhardt, Myrtine Neff and Rolin M. Smith are returning to the University of Michigan.

Ralph Thompson and Rudolph Zabel are returning to William and Mary College. Miss Virginia Taylor and Miss Elizabeth Lawrence are going to the University of Buffalo and Akron. O. after his graduation from Ohio University.

The Rev. Dr. William W. Ryan of the Church of the Holy Name, officiated at the ceremony, which was a simple one and witnessed by only a few friends.

Miss Couzens' wedding dress, a lovely white creation that she brought with her from Washington, D. C., was severely simple, with skirt from a little below knees and skirt back longer than the front. Point Angletiere lace, falling below the hem, was the only hint of trimming on the dress. A narrow pointed file of Angletiere lace held the long tulle veil in place and served as the bride's cap.

Miss Margy Couzens, the only attendant of Miss Madeline, wore deep sapphire-blue tulle, made with long sleeves, the skirt fashioned in petal effect and caught on one side.

Miss Couzens' traveling suit was a pepper and salt ensemble with a long tunic trimmed with beige ribbon. The same material was used for the belt. Her hat was black and gray felt with a turned down brim.
