Rear Collision In Bloomfield Hills Injures Pair

A woman and her seven months old child are recovering today from injuries received Sunday when the car in which they were riding in Bloomfield Hills crashed into a machine driven by Robert Graves, 1927 Seven Mile road, Detroit.

The mother is Mrs. James Jones, 10603 Warren avenue, Detroit. She was riding with her husband.

Neither he nor Graves was hurt. Jones' car stopped suddenly because of engine trouble. Chief William Patman said. The Graves car crashed into the rear of it, damaging both cars.

The child suffered by the mother and child were not serious.

PLAYGROUNDS UNDER WAY

Daily Sessions Draw Larger Crowds, Johnson, Reports

The Birmingham playground season is well under way today with more children reporting daily than at any time during the season, according to George F. Johnson, the director. Daily sessions are held at the Barnum field in the morning and the Adams field in the afternoon.

The children are divided into groups with regard to their weight and many games are arranged for them. Soft ball teams have been organized and are playing among themselves. Later in the season a prize is to be awarded to the most successful team.

Mr. Johnson said. Games have been arranged with Fernside for the boys and girls league.

A three-hole golf course has been laid out at Barnum field and a tournament is to be held for the boys. Also a tennis tournament is being planned for both boys and girls league.

AUTOISTS JAM JUSTICE COURT

ANNOUNCES

J. LEE VOORHEES

Petitions have been filed for J. Lee Voorhees for coroner on the Republican ticket at the September primaries.

Mr. Voorhees conducts his funeral home at 268 Perry street, Pontiac where he has been for the last two years, coming from Fenton.

He was born in Orion Township, in 1878, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse H. Voorhees, members of a family who were pioneers in Orion. Mr. Voorhees was graduated from Orion High School and attended the Merchant's School of Embalming in Chicago. He was connected with the Haley Undertaking Parlor in Detroit, upon completion of his work in Chicago, later opening an undertaking establishment in Fenton which he conducted for six years.

Mr. Voorhees is affiliated with the following lodges: Masons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias and American Legion. He is also a member of the Exchange club in Pontiac.

The WORLD and All

What To Do With Shysters
The word shyster is used by lawyers to designate a member of their profession who is unethical or crooked. A shyster is a lawyer who takes fees from both sides in a divorce case, for instance, and, knowing the man to be the wealthier of the two parties to the suit, rigs the case in the man's favor, although the woman may have been his client. A shyster will stoop to anything. He will rob orphans who have been committed to his care, by the court. He will bluff widows-out of their inheritance.

Bar associations are concerned about upholding the dignity and honor of the profession, and they are continually worried about shysters. Once in a while they get one disgraced.

But there are shysters in all professions and businesses. The reputable watchmakers, for instance, must have an awful time competing with the shyster watchmakers. A friend was telling me this morning that he took his watch to a jeweler to be cleaned, paid $4 for the job, and when he got the watch back it wouldn't run. He took it to another jeweler, who told him that the watch had not been cleaned and had been improperly put together. This fellow charged him $3.50, and the watch won't run. Also, the crystal fell out. My friend is in a fair way to lose faith in watchmakers and jewelers. And yet I know that there are thoroughly reputable repairmen who will clean a watch carefully, piece by piece, and assemble it properly. They generally charge a little more than the shysters, and they ought to charge more. Also, they ought to be patronized.

Shyster bankers cast discredit upon trustworthy bankers by robbing banks from within and then buying off justice if it is for sale. These shysters do untold damage to an honorable business. If I were a reputable banker I would work night and day for state and national laws that would inflict at least life imprisonment upon any banker who betrays the trust of his depositors.

There are shyster druggists who water their drugs of strong alcohol content, and in a hundred petty ways bamboozle their customers. Usually they are trifling tradesmen, robbing their neighbors.

bors of small sums and furnishing inferior goods. But all in all they constitute a serious problem for the public, which wants good drugs just as earnestly as it wants good undertakers, and a serious problem for the reputable druggists who have to face this unfair competition.

Every trade, bus, and profession ought to be organized against the shysters in its own body. Lawyers should be employed by the reputable tradegians and professional man to prosecute the disreputable competitor. Good dentists should be merciless in quacks in their own profession, and certainly reputable doctors should never testify to save from justice a doctor guilty of malpractice.

A speed limit of seven miles an hour is set in the town of Montclair, France, and the number of arrests for speeding averages 200 a day.

Recently a Canadian wrote Mayor V. R. Coleman of St. Louis asking his aid in finding a wife and offering to "reciprocate when ever possible."

Being an umpire must be a soft job. All you have to have is a head harder than a pop bottle.
