What To Wear, And How To Wear It

By LUCY CLAIRE

Fashion Report for Central Press and The Eccentric.

The typically summer coat is now at the height of its vogue. It may be of wool, silk, linen or velvet, but whatever its makeup, it is absolutely indispensable for the many delightful occasions that summering in the country brings. Except for the truly sport models of tweed summer coats this year are diversified in type and most intriguing. They may have fur on the cuffs or on the collar. Or again they may have no fur at all, and not even collar.

An all white coat is seldom smart, but a white coat with color is very much so. White, with touches of daffodil yellow, distinguishes the coat on the left that is woven of soft woven yarn in an open mesh construction. A long skirt serves in lieu of the usual collar, and two deep patch pockets ornament the otherwise straight line coat. Worn with a leghorn hat, with narrow ribbon band and black kid shoes, it makes an ideal coat for wear at the club or when visiting.

The second coat is more for formal affairs, being made of transparent, green velvet. The lynx collar is particularly effective when combined with the soft, clinging folds of the velvet. Although short haired furs will be much in the mode for fall, this summer still finds lynx and fox leading in chic. In case you don't already know, green is quite the newest shade of gray, being a combination of gray and beige in delicate tones. Silk crepe in the same cool green shade is used for the dress, which emphasizes the swathed hip and circular skirt.

Quilted linen in an intriguing design sets apart the coat on the right from its neighbors. Like many of the more recent fashion notes from Paris, it indicates the new coat length, being three to four inches shorter than the dress. The quilted coat shown in the sketch is peach colored, as is the sleeveless linen dress worn with peach kid shoes and a medium brimmed hat of ballbunt, complete the ensemble.

The summer coat with fur on the cuffs is seen quite often. Where you wear your fur is more often than not an indication of the shortness of your coat. This season it so happens that fur is being worn only on the collar or the cuffs, never on both. As a rule, summer coats seldom show fur at both the neck and cuffs, and to do so this year would be quite bad form indeed.

How To Achieve Beauty

THE HAIR'S WHITE PLAGUE

In cases of severe dandruff, a simple but efficacious remedy is the oil cap. To prepare it, fill a soup plate with cotton to which add warm olive oil. Bind this about your hair, then cover with cap and leave on overnight. Shampoo in morning.

Dandruff is one of the most of many, most unpleasant of hair disorders. A disorder, incidentally, much more prevalent among women than men.

Many physicians claim that dandruff is a germ disease. At one of the European medical institutes where I have been studying the important problems of hair growth I have lately heard several opinions to the contrary.

One group of research physicians have lately found that all experiments tend to prove that dandruff develops through a glandular disorder. Dandruff may be one of two kinds, first dry dandruff or "snow" in which condition the scalp will be covered with dry scales and under them is reddened and irritated. In outlining the treatments, I am going to warn you first of the necessity for scrupulous cleanliness, not only of the hair, but of your comb and brush as well.

Wash your hair-brush in warm water and a mild white soap, rinsing it out with warm running water and lastly dip it in the brush into a solution of cool water and boric acid. Combs should be cleaned with thread cleaners, which may be purchased at any drug or department store, and afterwards rinsed out in the warm water and boric acid solution.

In treating dry dandruff, be sure that you obtain preparations for dry hair. These are specifically designed to normalize the scalp

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Sandwiches. Iced Drink. Salads. Nuts. In entertaining your friends on the porch and lawn you will want to serve a salad instead of a hot drink. The fresh fruits so plentiful this time of the season make delicious drinks. The best way to sweeten them is to use a syrup rather than dropping the sugar directly into the bowl and beverage. It makes a smoother mixture and may be made up in quantity and used as wanted.

Today's Recipes

Sandwiches—For sandwiches to serve for a fourth bridge use sausage, mustard and olive cheese, but sandwiches and some made of your fresh lamb and jelly.

Syrup for Beverage—Put two as much sugar as water. Stir while heating, until dissolved, then let boil for ten minutes without stirring. Strain out, bottle and keep in the refrigerator.

Lemonade—Mix two cups of sugar with two cups of water. Stir while heating, until dissolved, then let boil for ten minutes without stirring. Strain out, bottle and keep in the refrigerator.

Orangeade—Squeeze out the juice with sugar syrup and dilute by pouring over crushed ice.

Mintade—Add the juice of six lemons and the starch of mint, cut very fine, to two cups of water and let stand for one hour. Strain out.

Current and Raspberry Lemonade—Mix one quart of current juice, one cup of raspberry juice, the juice of one lemon and syrup to taste. Chill and serve with ice.

Tea Punch—Mix two quarts of cold green tea and orange pekoe tea, the juice of six lemons, one cup of shredded pineapple, one cup of marshmallows, cherries—both fresh and large and red and one-half cups of syrup.

condition and are thus quite valuable in treating the condition scientifically. The same applies to oily hair, the preparations prepared for this condition will speedily correct it.

Shampoos should be one week to ten days more apart, the very oily hair needing more frequent washing.

Dandruff lotion should be used before each washing, retained over night, and removed the next morning by a good stimulating shampoo.

Philocarpine is a "free-living" remedy for dandruff, as it not only removes the dandruff, but improves the health of the scalp and the growth of the hair.
