Clean blankets to pack away or for cool summer nights

The Modern Laundry uses methods that are best for restoring blankets to their original newness.

Our blanket brushing process gently fluffs the nap; keeps the blankets soft and downy. They are washed in the mild, cleansing suds of pure Ivory soap—rinsed again and again in clear water and dried carefully to keep them from shrinking.

We have drivers in your territory every day.

WOMAN'S CLUB RAISES FUNDS AT BENEFIT

The Business Women's club cleared $166.30 profit on their benefit, "Bazaar," which they sponsored at the Kunsky Birmingham theater last Wednesday evening, according to totals Friday.

The proceeds go toward the club's contribution to the Community House.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gilligan, of Pontiac, moved to 123 West Humphrey last Saturday.

Mrs. and Mrs. Ora Laughlin, of Benaville avenue, are entertaining Mrs. Frank Rivard, Mrs. Henry O. Daugherty, of Bethel, O., and Mrs. C. Hill, also of Bethel, as their guests for the afternoon in honor of her out-of-town visitors.

She had Mrs. E. Shumard, of Bird street.

When she got well and strong he was sent to DeVeaux Military Academy, at Niagara Falls. This was from 1917 to 1919, during the world war. He wanted to finish his course at DeVeaux, but was brought to Birmingham to go to high school. Here he was in the school team and was always noted for his ability. Not only were his athletic abilities good, but he received high marks all the time he was in school here, and this is true of his four years at college.

He went to Oberlin College, playing on the nine there, and last year led the Oberlin team in the first Eastern tour. Following his graduation from Oberlin last week, he immediately went to Detroit professional for a try-out. If he is successful, his mother says, he plans to make this his life career.

Beside the experience with the Tigers, he has had three years on the Wilson Foundry nine in Pontiac, playing for them, and working in the foundry.

Thus Lefty Schorr worked himself up from injury and illness from which several noted surgeons said he would not recover until he achieved the high honor he holds today.

REPORT SEEN ON NEW P. O.

Investigation Made Into Need For Larger Quarters

Birmingham's chances for a larger post office hinge on a report soon to be made by a representative of the government who recently completed a canvas of the conditions here, according to word received by The Eccentric yesterday from Grant M. Hudson, congressman from this district.

According to T. C. Hotelling, assistant postmaster, the local office can not go through another Christmas season with the present force and capacity. "It was only through the aid of vacant garages where mail was stored, Mr. Hotelling says, that the office was able to get through the last Christmas, and it is doubtful whether, even with this extra space it could again be handled, he says.

"We cannot, of course, tell when we will get our new home," Mr. Hotelling says, "but it is imperative that we move into larger quarters before another Christmas."

Miss Phyllis Seal of Brighton, Eng., won $2,250 in a branch of promise suit, but refused the money, saying she only wanted vindication.

Carl Proeller, aged 8, of Lanark, Mo., drowned as he was being baptized.

Driving out of the line of traffic to reach Smith, Jordan's car was forced back in to the line by an oncoming car. He struck the wagon, throwing Smith to the ground. Sergt. Edward Myers, who investigated the accident, said:
