CLAIM POLICE UNDERPAID

Conference Called in Adjustment of Salaries For Department

Birmingham police are underpaid. Their wage scale should be on the same level as that of the fire department.

This is the contention of Arthur J. Tuggey, Birmingham real estate and insurance man following a conference with James W. Parry, village manager, in regard to a proposed raise for members of the force.

Following the conference between Mr. Parry and Mr. Tuggey, another conference of the management and chief of police is planned for this week with the police and fire committee of the commission.

Mr. Tuggey presented figures showing that Birmingham police are receiving smaller salaries than police of many other communities the size of this village.

The patrolmen in Birmingham start at $150 a month. After six months they are raised to $160, the second year they receive an other raise of $10 and the maximum, which comes in the third year, is $180. The maximum in the fire department, Mr. Tuggey said, is $190 and is reached in two years.

In all but one of a group of communities studied, the police and fire departments are on the same wage scale, Mr. Tuggey said.

The police receive a larger salary than they do in Birmingham and reach their maximum in a shorter length of time in the other communities, he declared.

Among the cities considered are: Dearborn, Flint, Ferndale, Wyandotte, Lincoln Park, Trenton, and Bloomfield Hills Villages.

"Birmingham is considered wealthier than most of the other communities and could well afford to pay its officers a living wage," he declared.

acter of the people as well," Judge Aldrich said. "It is therefore a necessity to make this influence as great as possible and the Birmingham Community House does this. There is no better home in the state than the Birmingham and the Community House is a great factor in such a community."

That the drive will succeed because of the determination of the main women who are devoting their time to it was the contention of Mr. Harris. He lauded the founders of the House and praised those who today are making it play a large part in the community.

"The Community House must keep up with the growth of Birmingham," he said. "As the village grows so will the need for a bigger house increase. It is true that the house is not adequate to take care of the many needs of the village now because of its small room and it is especially true that the village a few years from now will find a great deal more need for a bigger house."

The Friday meeting at the First Presbyterian Church was under the chairmanship of Mrs. George T. Hendrie. The Rev. Warner L. Forsyth, rector of the St. James Episcopal Church, Clarence Viet, superintendent of schools, and Mr. William Harris, one of the founders of the House were the main speakers. A member of the boy scouts of the village testified that the House had been a great help in the development of that organization.

Rev. Forsyth praised the work of the House and Mrs. Harris traced the history of the organization from the time it was founded. A newly promised the Community House $10 from the money he made selling papers was told to the persons at the Monday meeting by Mrs. Charles J. Shain, president of the board.

Members of the Girl Reserves organization in conjunction with the House sang at the meeting and a general review of the drive was made by Mrs. C. E. Wilson.

The new House will benefit people of Birmingham both materially and intrinsically, Mr. Viet said.

"It is one of the wisest investments that could be made in a community. We live but once and there will be very little to show for it if we do not leave something worth while," Mr. Viet said. "The people who help with donations are really investing the money rather than giving it. They will get great returns from their investment."

Pontiac Manager Addresses Club

C. W. Ham, Pontiac city manager, spoke before the Lions club at their regular meeting yesterday noon at the Chateau Tea Room. His subject dealt with the government in Oakland County.

"It is not the personnel but the charts and constitution of the community that make the framework of the government good or bad," Mr. Ham said. He told of the necessity of an intelligent and wide-awake electorate and said he regrets the lack of interest on the part of the electorate in public and local things.

By statistics Mr. Ham showed general development throughout the whole state. In closing he mentioned the increase assessed valuation in Pontiac during the past 14 years.
