BIRMINGHAM

The summer policy at the Birmingham theater is under way today, according to announcement by Russell Chapman, manager. This has brought about a reduction of prices and discontinuance of vaudeville.

The vaudeville showings are expected to be started again in the winter because of their popularity during the past season, Mr. Chapman said. Admission prices for the summer follow: for adults on week day matinees, twenty-five cents. On Sundays, Saturdays and holidays, thirty-five cents. This is also the price of admission in the evening. Children are admitted for 15 cents at all times.

Friday
Milton Sills, Doris Kenyon in "Burning Daylight."
Saturday
Les Miserables.

Sunday
Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky, lovers in three films, come to the Birmingham Theater Sunday in "The Night of Love," Samuel Goldwyn's presentation of George Fitzmaurice's production of a tale based on the feudal "right to the first night." Colman appears in an entirely new character for him, that of a bold Gypsy hand, a tousled-haired fellow with pointed mustaches and lengthened "side burns." Vilma plays the role of a beautiful Duchess, victim of the fearful "right to the first night."

Monday
The happy combination of May McAvoy and Conrad Nagel in leading roles in "Slightly Used" proved so successful that the two are again starred in "If I Were Single," which opens Monday at the Birmingham Theater.

"If I Were Single" is a fast-moving farceful play somewhat after the type of the previous McAvoy-Nagel success, and one which is admirably adapted to their adept portrayals of mixed comedy and drama.

Tuesday
A little near-tragedy that does not show in the picture was enacted in Hollywood during the screening of the First National production, "Ladies Night in a Turkish Bath," coming next Tuesday to the Birmingham Theater. Dorothy Mackail, who is co-featured with Jack Mulhall, sold boxes of lunches as a part of her role. Miss Mackail opened a stand on Canezaga Pass, a congested road leading to the First National Studio. Only the cast was supposed to make purchases, but truck drivers, automobilists and even pedestrians stopped to buy.

Wednesday
"Rosie-Marie," at the Birmingham Theater, Wednesday means fully as much to the screen as the famous musical play from which it was adapted meant to the stage. In other words, the charm of Arthur Hammerstein's stage presentation, by Otto A. Harboch and Oscar Hammerstein III, has lost none of its original charm in its transition to the screen.

Thursday
No doubt about it—Pola Negri has come into her own and fulfilled the expectation of the public in the matter of splendid, interesting pictures.

"The Secret Hour" next Thursday at the Birmingham Theater measures up to the extraordinary success of her three preceding vehicles—"Hotel Imperial," "Barbed Wire" and "The Woman on Trial."

CASS

Coming from nine months run at the Great Northern Theater Chicago, Schwab and Mondel's delightful musical performance is in its Detroit engagement at the Cass Theater. This is one of the genuine musical successes of the past ten years, which for fifteen months thrilled New York audiences and is also at present enjoying sensational success at the Drury Lane Theater, London, where it is now in its second year.

The cast seen in Detroit is headed by Alexander Gray, Charlotte Lanang and Bernard Granville and includes Harold Stanton, Edna Torrence, Betty Gallagher, Evans, Carlotta Miles, Ben Hendricks, John Ehrle, Larry Lawrence, Almasine Wisday, Alfred Barris, Jack Spiegel and a large singing ensemble including a stirring male chorus.

The music of "The Desert Song" is by Sigmund Romberg, composer of "The Student Prince," "Blossom Time," "My Maryland" and "Rosalee" and there will be a special orchestra to do it justice. The book is by Otto Harbach, Oscar Hammerstein and Frank Mandel, authors of "Rose Marie," "Sunny," "No, No, Nanette," "Golden Dawn" and "Show Boat."

The authors have selected a most colorful and picturesque locale for the story of "The Desert Song," its scenes being laid in Northern Africa during the recent uprising of the Rifis. It has for its motif the struggle of the desert tribes against the soldiers of the Foreign Legion and the story carries an unusually romantic interest in the love of the mysterious leader of the Rifis, known as the Red Shadow, for Margaret Vonvalet, the ward of the French governor of the Moroccan province. The mysterious figure is really the son of General Birbeau, the French Governor, who is quite to interest the girl in his true but prosaic character. She has come from a convent in Paris, full of girlish notions about shells and desert love, and is fascinated by the stories she has heard about the gallant warrior who is sought by the entire French army. How the modern Robin Hood manages to keep his identity a secret from his father while he abducts his ward to give her a flavor of her own idea of romance and how he manages to win the girl's love and to discard his dual personality are told in a series of thrilling scenes. The comedy element is supplied by a timid war correspondent.

BIRMINGHAM THEATRE BUILDING

THE desirability of Beverly Hills as a community in which to live is attested to by the fact that fully one-half of the 3,381 Detroiters who have purchased home sites in this development bought for their own use. And a goodly portion of this number are making use of the sites they purchased.

There still remain available several choice sites—in both the Woodward Avenue and Southfield units, at prices that are very reasonable.
