

UNION SERVICE IS PLANNED

United and First Presbyterians Announce Two-Month Arrangement

Rev. Henry E. Evans, pastor of the United Presbyterian Church and Rev. Floyd E. Love, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, announced last Sunday they had arranged to hold joint evening services for the coming months.

The plan is to hold the services in the United Presbyterian Church during November and in the First Presbyterian Church during December. The ministers will preach alternately each week except when special speakers and services are arranged.

ASSESSMENT PLAN VETOED

as favoring the plan originally set up by the board.

Commissioner Lee A. White, J. H. McBride and Scott Hersey voted that the original plan be gone through with.

Need for a full time assessor was stressed by most of the persons who spoke at the meeting. The present system is not well equalized, they said, various properties being assessed on different basis.

Larry Colgrove, Louis Hascall, Arthur Tugger, and David Levinson, all realtors, Charles J. Shain, former president of Birmingham, Robert Y. Moore, supervisor of Birmingham, and George S. Averill, publisher of the Eccentric, were some of the speakers.

Possibility that a three-man citizen board will be asked to work with the assessor also was indicated at the meeting.

Commissioner White said he believed the Cleveland firm, which was to have been awarded the contract was able to do the work scientifically and should be hired.

He did not oppose the start of a full time assessor for the village but said the assessor's work would be made easier and better by the reassessment at this time.

Citizens said they did not oppose the scientific reassessment of Birmingham but felt the firm should be called in after the full time assessor was hired. In this manner, the specialists could work together, they said.

young preacher and his singing wife. Rev. Kilpatrick would preach three sermons a day often walking 35 miles. He was pastor for seven townships and Mrs. Kilpatrick recalls that in all the seven townships there was only one double roofed house, nor were there any churches. In those days men and women met in the schoolhouses and homes for worship and the preacher was paid in kind and what was left.

With flashes of humor and smiles at the days that used to be the days of the new village, Mrs. Kilpatrick sits at the window of her home on West Maple avenue and watches a nation that elects presidents, fights wars, and goes along in a speed-loving mania, forgetting the slow struggles of her pioneers. But Mrs. Kilpatrick is as much alive and interested in this nation as she was when the man from the log cabin became president and she looks forward to casting another Republican vote in 1932.

He will be accompanied to decide on the merits of the contestants. The audience, by its applause, will choose the winners.

Persons who can do a trick whistling, those whose tone is most beautiful, and those who show the most versatility are favored.

Everything points to it being a big event from the start to the finish. The whistlers will appear at about 9 p. m. so persons at the house either the first or second show will be present.

WORKER FALLS OFF BUILDING

Falling 20 feet to the ground from the roof of the new building at the corner of 10th and 11th streets, Fred Seaman, laborer, sustained a fracture to his back Tuesday morning.

He was taken to the St. Joseph Mercy Hospital at Pontiac.

VILLAGERS AND THE VILLAGE

dump cement downtown during the past week. The litter was carried with pump down Woodward avenue till it found a new resting place on some walk. It would seem that only heavy snows will drive this Oriental touch from Birmingham.

One villager has been invited to enter a suicide pact, if suggestions in the mail mean anything. He received a letter from a firm arms company in Baltimore, thanking him for his order and assuring prompt delivery of a set of pistols. We have heard of people putting soap on windows Halloween and things like that, but this is the age of torch victims, and pacts it seems.

Marguerite Sweet, who takes good care of the new village, the so-called friends at noon daily in her tea room in the theater building, began to be advised under the reporter from this newspaper. I intended to take her to lunch, but the lion is no less than Leo who spent a half hour in front of her store a week ago looking longingly at an assortment of candy in the window. A representative of this newspaper, sent to interview Leo, asked him to lunch but the lion declined. However, the reporter hastens to assure Mrs. Sweet, he places too high a value on her important marble ornaments to drag an obnoxious lion in to see them. And what's more, lions eat more than flappers.

Mrs. William Blake of Harmon avenue informs us something went decidedly amiss in the last issue of the newspaper, sent to interview Leo, when we quoted her as saying she would cast her ballot for Mr. Hoover. "I don't know how that happened," Mrs. Blake said. "I have been for Smith since the campaign started. Even if I were sure he would be elected under I still would vote for him." We were glad the mistake was called to our attention and hope all persons who read her interview in the last edition will see this correction.

Ring the bell of the Methodist Church was one diversion of Birmingham children on Halloween. No false alarms called out firemen and only one broken window was reported. Patrolmen Joseph MacGregor and Frank Williams, found a novel way of solving Halloween's problem. Every time they saw a group of young people going the rounds of doorbells and suspended windows, they asked the children to join them in walking their beats. The youngsters "did," and Patrolmen MacGregor and Williams were seen leading about two caravans of unsuspecting children on one of Birmingham's quietest Halloween's. Although police were kept busy answering calls, no serious damage was done and Birmingham awoke the next morning to nothing more serious than soaped windows.

RE-ELECTED IN LANDSLIDE

GOV. FRED W. GREEN

Gov. Green hung up one of the largest margins in history over his Democratic opponent, William Comstock, in Tuesday's election. He drew a heavy vote from Bloomfield Township as well as the entire Oakland County.

MAN INJURED IN THE HILLS

Running For Street Car, Charles Ezell Strikes Side Of Automobile

Struck by an automobile as he was running for a street car at the Long Lake road and Woodward avenue in Bloomfield Hills, Charles Ezell, 55 years old, of Pontiac, is in the St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, today suffering from a broken leg and internal injuries.

POLICE SEEK COAT THIEF

Police today are seeking the person who stole a woman's fur coat valued at $185, from the Birmingham Department store on Woodward avenue Saturday.

L. E. Davidson, owner of the store, discovered the loss Saturday night when he took the regular daily inventory. The coat was in stock during the morning inventory, he reported to police.

Two women were questioned in connection with the theft, but released when it was found they could not aid police.

The coat was silver muskrat.

QUARTET TO GIVE CHURCH CONCERT

The Invincible Quartet of Conroe College, Conroe, Tex., will give a program of sacred music Sunday at 7:30 p. m. under the auspices of the First Baptist Church at the Baldwin High School auditorium.

The Quartet received a great reception at the church Sunday meeting and are singing this week at a number of Detroit churches, including the Woodward avenue Baptist. They stress harmonic interpretation of the negro spirituals and plantation melodies. The Coleridge-Taylor Conservatory of Music of Wichita, Kan., writes, "The Conroe College Invincible Quartet sing with intense feeling and reverence. Their interpretation of the spirituals is decidedly impressive."

Admission to the public will be free, though a free-will offering will be taken for the benefit of the college. In connection with the special program of music, Rev. D. L. Woodward announces he will give the first sermon of a special series of Sunday evening sermons on slavery. The series is announced by Mr. Woodward follows: Nov. 1—"Slavery First"; Nov. 18—"Eventually"; Nov. 25—"Say It With Flowers"; Dec. 2—"Varieties"; Dec. 9—"The Flavor Lasts."

HUNTERS PREPARE FOR NORTH TRIP

Dear Seniors Opposing In West Bridge Inhabitants To High Pick

Interest of Birmingham hunters is running high today with the opening of the deer season next Thursday. Already 30 villagers have made arrangements to go to the Birmingham Hunting Club near Alpina, leaving here Tuesday.

"There are still club memberships to be had," Allen McGill, president of the Birmingham Hunting Club, said. "Game is more plentiful this year than ever before in the history of the club, and we are looking forward to good hunting."

Mr. McGill reports that every hunter returned to the Village 1 year with a deer, the law permitting only one for each person.
