

VILLAGE GIRL GOLF CHAMP

Ruth Robinson First in Detroit High School Play-off

The Detroit high school girls' golf championship is held today by Miss Ruth Robinson, junior player at the Birmingham Golf club and resident of Northlawn drive.

The honor was attained by Miss Robinson who is a student at Highland Park high school, by defeating Miss Elizabeth Hutchinson of Central High School in the play-off at the Backham country club Saturday. The two-match was arranged following the girls' city tournament last week when both contestants topped the field of approximately 45 entrants turning in cards of 57 on nine holes.

her opponent 13 up in the dual match to settle the individual championship. Her score was 51 one stroke better than that of the week before. Miss Hutchinson encountered difficulties on two holes and failed a score of 69.

The title holder has been a player at the Birmingham Golf club for two seasons and ranks among the best of the women golfers on that course. Miss Robinson received first prize in the annual two-ball tournament at Birmingham this summer for the lowest number of puts. She was among the first four players in the Detroit city tournament last year and captain of the Glendale high school's golf team. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William H. Robinson.

PLANNING COMMISSION STUDIES FUTURE DEVELOPMENT PROBLEMS

Expenditures in civic progress and beautification of other communities are being studied today by the Birmingham planning commission to ascertain the ultimate benefits derived from a body which studies problems and prepares a future plan for development.

Approval of the plan of securing an expert city planner to study problems encountered in future development is given by Mrs. F. Wilson, of the organization, who says, "Birmingham is taking a forward step in addition to using a wise piece of financing in seeking the services of an expert planner to prepare a master plan for future development."

The costly mistakes that are frequently made in the extension of water mains, sewer disposal and other community necessities are being avoided by a definite plan is followed, utilizing the village's natural resources in beauty. Mrs. Wilson points out in advocating the use of an experienced planner.

Only one who has given considerable time and study to problems similar to those of Birmingham in other communities is in a position to measure accurately and predict the factors which determine the wisest expenditure of the taxpayers' money. In construction of large buildings it is generally considered that a good architect saves far more than his fee in the savings effected by his experience and advice. Surely the building of a town deserves no less careful planning," Mrs. Wilson avers.

The village planning body, in addition to investigating conditions and the records of various planners elsewhere are making a preliminary local examination in order that accurate information will be available to the firm chosen to study the village.

"It is probable that in the opening of new streets for the accommodation of increasing traffic, a system can be devised whereby the minimum time is lost and congestion be avoided at points of juncture," said Mrs. Wilson. "If we make use of similar conditions which have occurred in other cities for which successful solutions have been provided we are that much better prepared. Why not have available the ideas, which are the culmination of municipal problems, at the time of construction?" she asked.

Mrs. Lillian Edwards Cook, American Legion Auxiliary: "Persons of the village, whether members of the auxiliary or not, are asked to contribute canned fruit, vegetables or jellies for the disabled soldiers a Battle Creek, and the Children's Billiet at Otter Lake. These donations may be left at the Stewart Sweet shop or they will be called for if I am notified, by telephoning 1073 J."
