

COUNTY PROBES FATAL MOBILE COLLISION

CALL INQUEST INTO DEATH OF AUBURN YOUTH

One Killed, Nine Injured As Two Cars Crash Near Here

DRIVER IS ARRESTED

Inquest is planned for Saturday in the death of Leonard Brandt, 11 year old boy, which was attributed by police to the failure of a youthful driver to halt at the "stop" sign at Auburn and Main streets, Sunday afternoon.

Nine other persons were injured, three seriously when the cars of Marshall Nachtergale, 19 years old, of route 4, Millard, and Oscar E. Brandt of Auburn Heights crashed.

Driver Arrested

Arrest of Nachtergale was made after Deputies Frank Greenan, Earl Walker and Cecil J. Duffy investigated the accident. They were told he ignored the "stop" sign, only slowing down before driving onto Auburn road. His car leaped a ditch and struck a tree head on after it was struck in the side by Brandt's machine which overturned. He was released Monday noon after he and others in the accident had made a statement to Assistant Prosecutor Charles L. Wilson. The inquest in the death of Leonard, who was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Brandt, is being ordered by Coroner O. C. Farmer.

The boy with his three year old sister, Bernice, was hurled from his father's car beneath the wheels of the other vehicle.

The girl is in serious condition today in the Pontiac City hospital from second degree burns sustained when boiling water from the radiator of Nachtergale's car was splashed. Belief that she suffered a fractured skull was announced following a doctor's examination.

A broken collar bone and injuries to her hip were suffered by Mrs.

Brandt. Her husband was cut and bruised.

Six In One Car Hurt

All of the six persons riding in the auto driven by Nachtergale were injured. Miss Ethel Wilson, school teacher of Milan, was injured about the ankles, back and hips. She was discharged from the hospital Monday. Ralph Kowalczyk, 14197 Rutherford street, Detroit is being held in the St. Joseph Mercy hospital for observation. Others treated and discharged include his brother, Charles and Joseph and John Grant, both of 8833 Burnett avenue, Detroit, who all received cuts and bruises. Nachtergale was cut on one leg.

The injured were taken to the hospital by the Farmer and Davis ambulance.

Funerary services were held for the boy yesterday at 2 p. m. at the Presbyterian Church at Marlette, Mich. The family moved to Auburn Heights from there, six months ago. The body was taken to Farmer's funeral parlors following the accident.

GO MEMBERS AT DEMONSTRATION

Home Leader Speaks At Two Troy Township Meetings

Sixty members of the Royal Oak district of home demonstration work heard Mrs. Louise Campbell, head of the home demonstration leader in Oakland County, speak at the meeting in the Troy township hall last Friday.

Mrs. Campbell, who spoke both in the morning and afternoon, described the conduct of a class in nutrition. She explained the subject of nutrition which will be stressed by the state department in its work this year.

A demonstration of musical appreciation for children was given by Miss Bertha Schardt, formerly of the musical department of Detroit City college. Her portion of the program was designed to explain to mothers, methods of instilling an understanding of good music in their children.

The demonstration work is supported by the county and state in an effort to teach the fundamentals of household economics to the housewife. Lessons in cooking, sewing and other subjects have been included in work done at the sectional meetings in Oakland County. A lecture by Mrs. Eaton was given at the Troy township meeting. The program was supervised by Mrs. J. H. B. Wattles, representative of the group from the Royal Oak section. This division includes several townships in this section.

Welcome was extended to the group by Morris Wattles, Troy Township supervisor. At noon a pot luck luncheon was held in the hall's assembly room.

Following the luncheon a meeting of the organization was held. Miss Ethel McDonald, county demonstration agent and Mrs. Mabel Porteus, chairman of the group.

the jungle, veldt and desert on the trail of "Simba," the lion. In the heart of crushing beauty, treacherous and mysterious in their ways, dapper monkeys swinging in gay abandon from branch and vine, great dusty herds of stumpy, clever elephants uprooting trees that they may munch the tops, giraffes, rhinoceroses, and water buffalo, orz, impalas, hyenas, crocodiles and zebras each in the simple unconsciousness of its jungle life. Then the most thrilling and intimate pictures of the king of beasts fully contrived to catch him unaware when a click of the camera, a change in the wind, a mistle or a whisper might have brought a charging lion upon him who took the picture. One feels as though he had been in far places and met with high adventure of the most authentic and realistic kind after two hours and a half with Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson. "Simba" must be seen to be believed, and not always then. It is a tale of the finest pluck, of hairbreadth escapes, of gripping interest, a record of stamping the African scenes on the mind. Two performances are given daily at 2:30 and 8:30.

'MORE BEER AND WIDER SIDEWALKS'

Mistaking the sidewalk of west Maple avenue for a thoroughfare, two 17 year old boys, Claude Tapp, 2362 Woodland avenue, Detroit and M. Snyder, Woodman avenue, also Detroit, paid fines Friday in Justice Malcolm Hunt's court on charges of drunken and disorderly conduct.

Tapp, the driver of the car was fined $25, while Snyder's fine amounted to $5.

According to Patrolman Earl Moody, they were so intoxicated that neither youth could remember his name or address until the morning after the arrest.

CHILD INJURED AS 3 CARS CRASH

Adams and Bowers Scene Of Collision Involving Auto. mobiles

Maxine Fadden, 11 years old, of 98 south Shirley avenue, Pontiac, is recovering today from slight injuries which she received when the machine in which she was riding was involved in a three-car accident at Adams and Bowers avenues, Sunday night.

The car was driven by Florence Leonard of the same address. Patrolman Frank Williams, who investigated, was told by Lottie Newell, 1502 Maple street, Flint, that she was unable to stop in time to prevent a collision with the auto ahead, driven by J. W. Carey, 11 Farrand avenue, Highland Park. The latter's vehicle was thrown forward so violently that the next car ahead was badly damaged and the girl injured. Cuts and bruises about the face of the child were dressed at the St. Joseph Mercy hospital.

FORFEITS DEPOSIT

Pleading not guilty to a charge of violating a traffic signal, Gaylord C. Clark, no street address given, Detroit, forfeited his deposit of $15 in Justice Floyd Buck's court when he did not appear for trial Tuesday. He was arrested by Sergeant-Deon Anderson of the Bloomfield Hills police at Woodward avenue and the Long Lake road.

The demonstration work is supported by the county and state in an effort to teach the fundamentals of household economics to the housewife. Lessons in cooking, sewing and other subjects have been included in work done at the sectional meetings in Oakland County. A lecture by Mrs. Eaton was given at the Troy township meeting. Theaters

CASS

Philip Goodman's "The Five O'Clock Girl" starring Mary Eaton and Oscar Shaw, will begin a limited engagement at the Cass Theater, Detroit, next Sunday night.

"The Five O'Clock Girl," which ran for an entire season at the Forty-Fourth Street Theater, New York, is light frothy musical fare, the story concerning a shop girl who pretends to be what she is not and phones the boy of her heart every evening at five.

Pretentious settings designed by Norman Bel Geddes furnish the background for the entertainment. There is a chorus of fifty girls, all dashing and vivacious, appearing in splendid costumes and executing many eye-holding dance numbers.

The book is the work of Guy Bolton and Fred Thompson. The music was composed by Harry Ruby and Bert Kalmer. "Up in the Clouds," "Thinking of You" and "I Do" are three of the outstanding musical numbers.

The usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees will be given.

CIVIC

"Saturday's Children," by Maxwell Anderson, opens Monday night at the Detroit Civic Theater with Miriam Sears and George Blackwood as the young married couple about whom the story is built, and Lorna Carroll, Albert Loew and Walter Sherrin in interesting character parts. This play was a favorite in New York and aroused much interest in Detroit last season, when it appeared with Ruth Gordon as "Bobby," the role which Miss Sears will have. Human nature, especially young and newly married human nature is the theme of the play. The hero and heroine might live in Detroit; their problems are the problems of most young couples. They are universal figures, the boy who is not drawing an enormous salary, and the girl-wife who is accustomed to working for her own pay envelope. Laughter and heartache, trials and happiness fill the play from start to finish. The co-author of "What Price Glory" reveals an uncanny knowledge of his fellow-humans in "Saturday's Children," and the salty humor that made him famous in the latter play.

DETROIT OPERA HOUSE

Fascinating Dorothy Gish, known to millions of movie fans the world over, has deserted the stage for the speaking stage. She will make her debut as a star at the Shubert Detroit Opera House on Sunday night, Sept. 30th. After playing the week in Detroit and one in Pittsburgh Miss Gish takes her new play to Broadway.

Miss Gish's new play, a modern, sophisticated and witty comedy of the revolt of youth, is titled "Young Love." It was written by Samson Raphaelson, the author of "The Jazz Singer." As a fascinating Joan of Arc in love, Miss Gish has rare opportunity to display her interesting personality and gleaming talents in the utmost. In the flesh and blood contact of the speaking stage she will be found even more interesting and alluring than in her screen triumphs, such as Orphans of the Storm, "Heart of the World," "Neil Gwynn" and untold others.

Miss Gish's debut on the stage is much doubly interesting by the fact that her husband, James B. Gish, star of "The Great Gatsby," "Crime" and dozens of other
