an Oakand County the yote could have been availed in certain sections but it is doubtful if the sults would have been more satisfactory. The new officials who, by virtue of their nominal on, will take office, are satisfactory to the people; one who will return for longer service have proved in worth.

Campaigning; with one or two regretable excepns, was clean. That, too, is something in which people of this county may take pride.

Prosperity and clean, efficient handling of puboffices seems to be the putlook for the next two at a deast in this county. And such an outlook something coveted by many other parts of the Location of Birmingham's new postoffice to a critic point four doors north of Oakland avenue on Wood- ward avenue, has raised a storm of protest among the local citizens. Used to a more central location, many it people are opposed to going another block out of per their way to get to so, needed an institution as the village postoffice.

thair way to get to so needed an installand post-ible postoffice. However, the site has been selected, and Post-master Cobb, who has certainly been handicapped in the past by inadequate housing co.ditions for his growing department, promise, better and more rapid service when he gets into the new building—which may be sufficient compensation for the extra walk-ing entailed through the new location.

For Safer Streets

The Eccentric is pleased to see that a suggestion made in these editorial columns some weeks ago, that the village experiment with rubber street signs of warning for motorists, has been taken.

Today several of these signs have been placed in the pavement at crossings which have proved themselves to be dangerous.

Perhaps this precaution will help prevent accidents and make motoring in the heavy traffic of this village more side. The same signs are reported by officials of others cities to have reduced the number of accidents. There is no reason why they should not work out satisfactorily here.
