Here, folks, is another picture of what may become a famous "swimmin' hole" in these sections. It reveals a bit of the wild flower life that surrounds this pond in the new Bloomfield Park. The eight youngsters whose heads and bodies you may see in this picture were enjoying themselves there recently when the staff photographer of The Eccentric, accompanied by Township Clerk James Bayley, located the spot. If you are very thorough in looking over this photograph you may see Mr. Bayley, as he envies the boys their carefree sports—just as when he was a boy in Birmingham, years ago. Look in the upper left-hand corner—see him!

A plan under which Vinetta boulevard traffic would be given separate roadways through the Twelve-Mile road grade separation at the relocated Grand Trunk railway tracks to avoid congestion was broached by state highway engineers at a conference with Royal Oak officials yesterday in Detroit. The proposal, which was approved by Prof. Henry E. Riggs, special engineering consultant for the city, would provide for the widening of the grade separation and for creation of four distinct roadways, divided by a curb. Two signs would regulate the flow of traffic across Twelve-Mile road. The suggested solution of the difficulties encountered at the Twelve-Mile road and Vinetta area will be presented to the city commission Monday by City Engineer Edward M. Shafter, acting as city manager during the vacation of R. J. Whitney.

No demonstration of handicraft is complete these days unless it has a few model airplanes, and the children's fund established by Senator James Couzens, in Hazel Park, Berkley and Clawson, last night had several of them, including the "Spirit of St. Louis." Many parents attended the exhibition of handicraft and demonstration of games and dancing learned by the children during the eight-weeks program of community recreation financed by the Children's fund established by Senator James Couzens, in Hazel Park, Berkley and Clawson. Clawson will hold its demonstration Tuesday night and Berkley's will be Thursday. Each will start at 7 p. m. at the high school where there will be events for everyone, as well as a program of stunts and dancing given by the children.

Oak Park village's zoning plan and the subdivision building restrictions promise to assure an excellent type of growth in the village. Clarence H. Elliott, new manager, stated, "There are big possibilities here," he said. "I believe this is one of the best sections for future growth because of its proximity to Detroit. Good building sites are protected by high class restrictions, assuring a highly restricted district of good homes."

Pontiac with a growth of 7.10 per cent leads the state in the number of telephone stations installed during the first six months of 1929 in the group of cities having between 10,000 and 15,000 stations, according to T. C. Maher, Pontiac manager. Other cities included under the same classification are Ann Arbor, Battle Creek, Jackson and Saginaw.

Army veterans in all parts of the United States are preparing to rally once again at the various conventions which will be held throughout the country during the next month. Pontiac veterans are already making plans to be in large attendance at conventions which will be held in St. Paul, Denver and in Portland, Me.

Rumors to the effect that the two new Pontiac Junior high schools under construction at the present time will not be completed in time to open Sept. 3 are groundless, according to statement issued today by Ransom Hazelton, business manager. Mr. Hazelton stated that work on all four buildings has progressed to such a point that their occupancy in September is assured.

The Clawson Methodists are observing the 25th anniversary of the dedication of their church. The church was built in 1917 and dedicated by the late Bishop Theodore F. Henderson. From a congregation of about 50 members attached to a circuit with two other churches, it has grown with the development of the village and now has a membership of 268.

Several hundred dollars is being held by the Village of Beary for property owners to whom it is due, but who do not collect. The money was awarded two years ago in the condemnation of land

Wife of a telephone company president obtains divorce, reads a headline. Sounds like another case of the wrong number.

Those who get fat do not always broaden themselves.

The girl friend wants to know why girls weren't allowed to compete in the Edison scholarship contest. The answer is—did you ever see a woman drive a nail?

"Earthquake shakes Bologna," says another headline. Of course, it still is Bologna, no matter what happens to it.

A friend about to get married, didn't. The girl's dad asked if he made enough to provide alimony. You know, that's a sane question these days.

This pajama-wearing fad seems merely a case of mere exposure.
