

PONTIAC POOR LIQUOR MARKET, MAN REPORTS

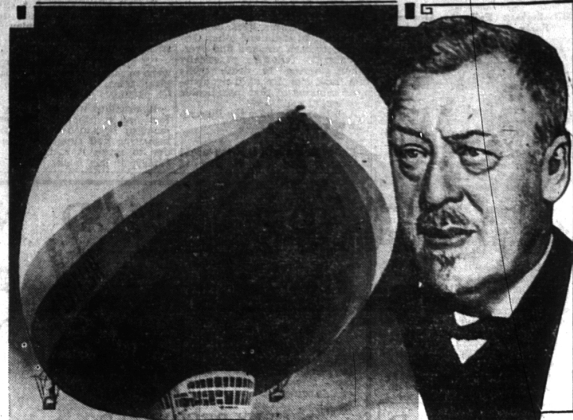

Youth Claims He Was Returning To Detroit With Shipment When Stopped
ARRESTED AFTER CHASE
 Claiming he could not sell his wares in Pontiac and was returning to Detroit, Andy Cline, 19, of 9704 St. Annin street, Detroit, pleaded guilty to a charge of transporting liquor before Justice Floyd S. Buck.
 He was released on $500 cash bond and bound over to circuit court. Cline was arrested by Birmingham police Saturday after a chase to Ferndale.

PROPOSED CLUB TO BE DISCUSSED

Purpose, Aim Of Organization Given; Plans Still Tentative
 Further discussion of plans for the proposed new club to be composed of Birmingham men will be held one week from tonight, it is announced today. Tentative plans to either rent or construct a club house have been under discussion for three weeks.
 The name, "Birmingham Town club" has been suggested and Ralph Wilson and Dr. Fred L. Tucker, members of the committee on purpose, have presented the following as the aim of the proposed club: "to promote the economic, civic and social welfare of the village."

 The possible exception of two or three hours a week ago when the pressure dropped low because of an unusually heavy demand, due to the warm weather. Our present source of supply, plus the newest well, provides us with 2,500 gallons of water per minute while the maximum demands are only about 1,425 gallons. There is, of course, the danger of mechanical trouble, although our Lincoln avenue well has run four and one-half years without any trouble."
 Mr. Parry stated that a well drilling company now employed by the village is willing to guarantee three more 1,000-gallon per minute wells within the present village limits, thus assuring Birmingham of a possible future supply totaling 11 1/2 million gallons. He said that the elevated water storage tank, although designed as a reserve supply and to assist in equalizing pressures over the village, was soon to be recognized as an unnecessary portion of Birmingham's water works system. "The use of pumps at various sections of the community, together with larger mains, will soon eliminate the necessity for the big elevated tank," he stated.
 The speaker answered several

ECKENER OUTLINES WORLD FLIGHT OF GRAF ZEPPELIN

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the giant Graf Zeppelin, has announced he plans to stay but three days at Lakehurst, N. J., after arrival from Friedrichshafen, before starting on a world flight. questions asked by Charles J. Shain and David H. Ladd, former village commissioners. George B. Averill, publisher of The Eccentric, in a brief statement, attacked Mr. Parry's past incursions to argue for the sale of water outside of Birmingham, holding that as yet the village needs all the available water for its own use. "It is only because of good fortune that the village needs all the available water for its own use," stated Mr. Averill. "For during that time we have depended upon the Lincoln avenue and Baldwin avenue wells, and the elevated tank. Damage to the Lincoln avenue well would have left us without sufficient water to reach our cell and doors within a few hours of stopping, after the elevated tank had become empty."

 It was Mr. Averill's contention that, until such a time as the village owns and can operate a great deal more water supply than it now possesses, Birmingham should continue to refuse outside subdivisions water contracts, in accordance with the apparent policy of the present and past village commissions.

and Harry Allen and Scott Horsey, voted against the resolution while White and President H. T. Ellerby favored it.
White Approves
 The matter was brought to the commission by Assessor Albert W. Noonan who asked whether it would not be better to have an outside firm work on the buildings and personal property. Commissioner White still maintained Monday, he believed this plan would work out more satisfactorily than having the work done by a group of Birmingham men.
 He declared it would remove the possibility of anyone facing the charge of "padding" and that the outside firm should give the persons to be assessed a thorough and secure feeling of fairness.
 "In view of the fact that no powerful opposition has been presented to the plan of engaging the J. M. Clenshaw company, of Cleveland, to do the work, I move the president and clerk be authorized to sign a contract with the firm," said Mr. White.
Explains Vote
 The vote was then taken and the resolution tabled.
 In explaining his negative vote, Robert Allen said, "It does not necessarily mean that I disapprove of the plan and favor engaging local men. I believe, however, the other two commissioners should be here before we take action."

 The commission previously had conferred with Mr. Noonan and Walter Connolly, member of the board of review of Birmingham.
 The aim of the plan is to equalize assessments on personal property and buildings, it is explained. Assessing of land will be done by Mr. Noonan.
 Commissioner Halgren is not expected to return to Birmingham from her vacation until Sept. 1, and it is doubtful if the matter will again be discussed until that time.
 The contract price with the Clenshaw company was $4,300. The work would take about four months.

FROM THE ECCENTRIC COLUMNS—of Long Ago

Bits Of News Gleaned From Old Files Of The Eccentric—The Items That Make Up The Historical Background Of The Birmingham Of Today.

FIFTY YEARS AGO
 Mr. Michael Bloomberg has been a solid and substantial member of the M. E. Church for over 62 years. We dare say he is the oldest member of the society in this place.

During the freshet caused by the heavy rainfall, last week, George Shain's cow attempted to ford the roaring flood just north of the mill bridge, and the current taking her off her feet, it was nipped and tuck for a few minutes, tuck being in the ascendant about 2-1. Her ladyship was carried under the bridge, from whence she emerged tail foremost, was carried over the fence and down stream when she landed safely in Charles Wilson's lot.

-A KISSING BEE IN ELEPHANT LAND-

Seldom if ever is a photograph like this one made. Though baby elephants are just as playful as other babies in animal land, the photographer usually is not on hand when the youngsters romp and play like youngsters will, whether they be human or animals. These youngsters born in Siam, where the king has his own private herd, may some time become members of the pampered royal herd, but just now they are worrying about nothing. The photographer "shot" them with his trusty camera, the moment they had their trunk entwined in what looks like the soulful kiss that any movie director would give a fortune to reproduce in one of his productions.
