

GLASS WALLS AT EXHIBIT

STOCKHOLM—Large numbers of comparatively small halls with walls made almost entirely of glass is to be one of the striking features of the Stockholm Exposition preparations for the opening of which on May 15 next, are already being pushed ahead. The placing of this plan in the evenings, when the halls are closed, the articles exhibited may be seen from the outside through the glass walls, as the halls will be brilliantly lighted from within, showing up their entire contents. These groups of small halls are separated by flowered gardens and benches, where the visitor may sit.

In a tour through the grounds with the general director, Dr. Gregor Paulsen, and the head architect, E. G. Asplund, the representative of the Christian Science Monitor found the buildings already roofed in, so that in the spring there will be only the placing of the objects on exhibit in their halls.

The exposition is unique because it lies practically in the center of Stockholm, the "Venice of the North." One of the most beautiful parks of the city, Djurgården, containing many fashionable residences, has been chosen as the site. This park surrounds a body of water called Djurgårdsbrunn Bay, a part of Stockholm's Ström, and for exposition purposes the two banks of the river are connected by a new bridge.

Sailing boats such as one finds in Hamburg on the Elster will be seen on this expanse of water, and aquatic sports, rowing, sailing and swimming races will take place here, ending up with a display of fireworks every evening. A large illuminated fountain will be installed by the French firm, Lamior. This fountain rises 25 meters above the water, when it plays full force using 18,000 liters of water a minute.

A big open space, holding 50,000 people, in the center of the exposition, on the banks of the stream, will be devoted to orchestral performances and even to festival plays, performed by Sweden artistic and dramatic talent. Dominating this open space will be a tower 80 meters high, with an elevator to the top from which the environs of Stockholm may be seen.

Here will be a radio station and megaphone announcer as well as a room for the press. A large feature of the exposition is a garden with 10,000 species already planted, and equipped with electric pipes under the earth, which will force the growth so that they will be ready three or four weeks earlier than is usual in Sweden.

Behind the exposition grounds is a large agricultural exposition with model farms and other shows of interest to farmers.

The aim of the exposition is to show Swedish home culture in all its artistic details, including small model homes worked out according to different incomes, proving that even the simple workman may live in artistic and healthy surroundings. The height of Swedish de luxe art industry will also be displayed, such as its famous Orrefors glass.

FLINT MOTORIST PAYS $75 FINE

Jonah Walker, 1106 Stanton street, Flint, who was arrested Nov. 27 on a charge of transporting liquor, pleaded guilty to a $75 fine on a charge when arraigned yesterday before Justice Floyd S. Buck. He was given the option of a $75 fine or 45 days in jail. He paid the fine.

Walker was arrested by Bloomfield Hills police on the charge of transporting liquor, but Norman C. Orr, Oakland County Prosecutor, advised a change in the charge against the man, deeming that the officer's search of Walker's machine had been illegal.

GRAND TRUNK BUILDING WORK PROGRESSES RAPIDLY

With the work on five Grand Trunk underpasses well under way and the start of two more scheduled within two weeks, construction on the right-of-way between Detroit and Pontiac is being pushed ahead today. A crew more than 350 men is at work along the right-of-way, Grand Trunk officials declare.

A total of 18 underpasses will be completed by June 1, officials plan. All bridges are re-reinforced concrete and are of the underpass design. Work on three highway bridges over the tracks is slated for spring.

Completion of the underpasses at Fourteen Mile road and Webster avenue, Royal Oak, is scheduled within two weeks. Activities now are being rushed on the underpasses at Bloomfield Center, Charing Cross road, and Thirteen Mile road. Construction of similar bridges at Farmington and Greenleaf roads, Royal Oak, will start immediately, officials announce.

Although no definite date is named for track laying, it will probably be started in January, those in charge declare. It is planned that one or two tracks will be laid by spring.

The outstanding feature of the new Grand Trunk line will be the elimination of grade crossings, according to officials. By the installation of a total of 18 underpasses and five grade crossings in the Birmingham-Bloomfield Hills district, the cut between Maple and Adams roads, between Charing Cross and Big Beaver roads, and the section north of Square Lake road.

Material At Hand
The territory in the Square Lake road section is supplying the material for the filling in of the cuts in the other areas. It is estimated that over a million cubic yards of gravel will be removed from this section and transported to the embankment between Fourteen Mile and Maple roads already is completed. Activities now center in the cut between Maple and Adams roads, between Charing Cross and Big Beaver roads, and the section north of Square Lake road.

NEARBY and YONDER...

A City Afloat
WHEN the world's largest trans-oceanic ship—the Leviathan—sets sail for a jaunt across the straits deep it is virtually a city afloat.

This tremendous vessel has a passenger capacity of 4,000 and carries a crew upwards of 1,100—a total of 5,100 persons, or more than the population of many county-seat towns.

It is 500 feet long and 185 feet beam, and carries 25,000 tons of seven and one-half acres and it makes the trip between America and Europe in 14 days, 145 days in prairie schooner time, in five days and a few hours.

It has six boilers, 290 furnaces, uses oil for fuel, is capable of developing 100,000 horse power, her loaded weight is 15,000,000 pounds, and normal draft 20½ feet.

The amount of equipment required for the operation of this monster ship is astonishing. Among the items are 221,000 pieces of cloth, 48,000 pieces of glassware, 71,000 pieces of silver and 22,000 kitchen, pastry and store-room utensils; 4,000 mattresses, 24,000 pounds of blankets and 100,000 pounds of linen.

To provide for one trip, her lockers are stored with 180,000 pounds of meat, 60,000 pounds of potatoes, 70,000 pounds of flour, 15,000 pounds of butter, 2,000 quarts of milk, 2,500 pounds of tobacco, 600 bushels of apples, 16,000 pounds of sugar and three tons of tea and coffee—along with staggering quantities of various other edibles.
