Thawing? He's Melting!

By Paul Robinson

He Had to Report
"Is there anything serious about my case?" inquired the patient of the doctor.
"If there is," added the patient, "please tell me without using any of your medical or scientific names."
"To be perfectly frank with you," said the doctor, "you're too darn lazy to get sick."
"That's fine," said the indolent individual. "Now give me a scientific name for I've got to report to the missus."

SIDESWIPE

In the World of Humor

A stranger entered a church in the middle of the service, and seated himself in the back pew. After awhile he began to fidget. Learning over to the white-haired man at his side, evidently an old member of the congregation, he whispered: "How long has he been preaching?" "Thirty or forty years, I think," the old man answered. "I don't know exactly." "I'll stay, then," decided the stranger, "he must be nearly done."

"A gentleman to see you, Mr. Rockbottom."
"Salesman?"
"Yes."
"Has he a brief case with him?"
"No."
"Is he wearing knickers?"
"No."
"Is he sporting a dinky little mustache?"
"No."
"Send him in." Bill Sykes.

Modern Child: I don't remember his name, but he was a Scotchman.

Daughter: "Mother, do you want me to put the parrot on the back porch?"
Mother: "Positively no! Your father is repairing the car in the back yard."—Ex.

Prospective Purchaser—I don't exactly like the looks of this car from the front.
Salesman—But look at the back. It looks good from that view, doesn't it?
Prospective Purchaser—Well, that's all anybody'll ever see of this car.—Answers.
