

BREES GIVES RECITAL GROUP

Carillonist Opens Music Series At Christ Church, Cranbrook

The second of a series of carillon recitals by Anton Brees, carillonist from Antwerp, was given last evening at Christ Church, Cranbrook. They will be continued every Wednesday at 9 p. m. and Saturday at 4 p. m. until October, if planned.

The recital programs are varied and may be heard at a distance of from 500 to 1,000 feet from the tower of the Church at Cranbrook and the Lone Pine roads.

A sequel to the late former Vice-President Marshall's famous remark about the country needing a five-cent cigar in being told. After making the statement so quoted, Mr. Marshall was obliged with cheap cigars from numerous manufacturers, but instead of smoking them he gave them to Tom Neil, negro attaché of his office who smoked them all. And died.

WE HEARD IT SAID BY—

J. G. Klemons, Detroit: "The commission is to be congratulated in its sensible plan of appointing a committee to study the proposed sign ordinance. The committee is representative and should provide all a fair deal."

PLAN FURNISHING OF COMMUNITY HOUSE

Steps will be taken by the furnishing committee of the Birmingham Community House toward obtaining equipment for the new building, following authority given at a meeting. The committee was allowed $5,000 for immediate use and an additional $10,000 later.

This action was considered necessary so that most essential equipment may be ready when the new structure is completed in the fall.

A list of the immediate furnishing needs of the house, and their uses, will be submitted to the public in the fall at the start of a supplementary campaign for funds, it is planned.

STUNNING SUMMER CREATIONS TO BE WORN AT SEASHORE

There used to be a time when the well dressed woman depended on the Parisian Fashion Creators for the clothes she wore. Some women who want to be different still get their clothes from Paris. The great majority of the women of America, and they by the way are considered the best dressed women in the world, get that reputation by patronizing the local shops where the product of American fashion creators are on hand. In this series of photographs there are shown a quartette of creations especially planned for wear this summer at the seashore. The upper left shows an extremely modish beach and bathing costume by Mary Mewitzky. The materials are blue and white plaid rayon with a jersey coat of the same material and lined with wooling. The upper right portrays an American designed swimming ensemble of red and white rayon with a wool jersey and a straw bonnet. The lower left is a blue and white rayon gingham creation. Daffodils and dolls and a sailor hat give this beach ensemble just the right salty touch. The lower right is an extremely colorful creation in blue and green striped rayon done in the most unusual manner. Inset shows a checked beach hat. (Herbert Photos, N. Y.)

COMPLEXION ENDANGERED AS SUMMER APPROACHES

By MADAME RUBINSTEIN Golden brown skins are even more smart than lily white ones. But no style will ever demand that women have skins of a dry, lined, leathery-brown. And that is what summer, sans will lead to, unless you take precautions against it.

By all means go out of doors this summer. Be as pagan as you like in your devotion to the great god Sun. But please take a few sensible anti-sunburn measures. You can enjoy your vacation days quite as completely, and they will leave no unpleasant reminders upon your face and skin.

You can play tennis all day long, if that is your favorite pastime. But wear a hat or one of the new sunvisor caps that are now so fashionable along the Riviera. And cover your neck and arms with a sun-proof cream or liquid powder. This precaution is equally advisable and effective for a day of golfing, motoring or swimming.

And if you want to look tanned and golden wear over this foundation a dark powder in the popular gypsy lan shade or in French ochre. Or use the sunburning balms and lotions come in a natural skin tone, you can be as fair or as brown as you like by using over any one of them a powder in your favorite shade. And at the same time you can feel secure in the knowledge that your skin's beauty is protected.

Even two weeks of carelessness and shoddy to the sun's strong, active rays can injure your skin. As fond as I am of sports, it nevertheless often seems to me that that last generation had, in some respects, more common sense in its attitude toward summer weather than our enlightened, modern generation has. When our mothers and grandmothers sallied forth to join their social summer calls they always wore gloves and shade hats, and they very often carried umbrellas. No summer sun was warm or enticing enough to make them forget that ladies must have fair skins and hair of a fadless sheen.

Today, of course, styles in complexities have somewhat changed.
