CHURCHES

Redeemer Lutheran Church
On Lincoln Near Woodward
R. E. Scaer, Pastor

The service Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock will be a Joint Mission and Communion service. The local Pastor will preach the mission sermon in the morning on the subject: Thy Kingdom Come. Registrations for Holy Communion are to be made at the parsonage this Friday evening.

There will also be a Mission service in the evening at eight o'clock. The Rev. Edward Buchheimer from Detroit will preach in this service. In the morning's service the quartet will sing and the evening's service will be augmented by a choir selection.

This Thursday evening the ladies of the congregation will arrange for a supper to be served at the church from the hour of six to eight.

I was glad when they said unto me, let us go into the house of the Lord.

First Baptist Church
Willetts at Bates St.
David Leon Woodward, B. D.
Minister
Res. 248 Ferndale Ave.
Phones: Res. 1312, Study 1061

All are welcome who will worship the Lord in the spirit of holiness. Come to the following services.

Sunday School, 10:00 a. m. Come and let your spiritual life grow with this school. There is a place for everyone, young and old.

Morning Worship 11:00 a. m. The pastor will give a very timely and practical sermon, using as his theme, "A Desirable Growth." The music by the choir and the congregation is also an inspirational contribution to the service.

Loyal B. Y. P. U., 6:30 p. m. Billy Richardson will lead these young folk in discussing a timely and interesting subject. Watch this group grow.

Senior B. Y. P. U., 6:30 p. m. "What Is Worship?" will be the subject for discussion led by Marjorie Canever. Join them in this devotion service as well as in the Hallowe'en Party next Thursday.

Evening Worship, 7:30 p. m. Mr. Woodward will speak on the third of the series of "Vital Questions:" "Is Sin Out of Date." Congregational singing led by Prof. Protheroe will be enjoyed by all. Bring family and friends.

Church, 10:30 a. m.
Sunday School, 10:30 a. m.
Wednesday evening at 8.
Reading room in the church building is open from 11:30 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. daily except Sundays and holidays. It is also open on Wednesday before and after the service.

"Doctrine of Atonement" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches on Sunday, October 20.

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven: but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven" (Matt. 7:21).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The atonement is a hard problem in theology, but its scientific explanation is, that suffering is an error of sinful sense which Truth destroys, and that eventually both sin and suffering will fall at the feet of everlasting Love" (p. 23).

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

Rockne's Notre Dame Eleven Has Its Usual Schedule of Some Very, Very Tough Opponents

BY PHILIP MARTIN

THE football team that wins every game on its schedule this season will be powerful and lucky, and if it has played a few of the top-notch elevens it rightfully may lay claim to a national championship. From all appearances of the schedules, the list of unbeaten teams among those who play championship schedules will be as thin as it was last fall, when most of them at one time or another were bumped off.

Any team that wins two-thirds of its games is moving at a fast pace. If you doubt it, just ask Coaches Howard Jones, Pop Warner, Bob Zuppke, Knute Rockne, Chick Meehan, Bob Roper, Bill Alexander or Biff Jones. They will tell you that it is next to impossible to key a team up early in October and keep it keyed until Thanksgiving Day. But if they aren't keyed, they also tell you, the team is likely to be dropped most any time by an opponent of unsuspected strength.

Early this fall football writers heralded the Notre Dame eleven as having prospects for a team of national championship caliber. Twenty-five experienced varsity players reported to Rockne, and six of those athletes had seen two years of service as regulars.

Much was written about Captain John Law, a speedy guard, only five feet nine inches tall and weighing 161 pounds. The writers predicted that Jack Elder, speedy halfback, who is a nationally known sprinter, would have a big year. They declared that Marty Brill, a sophomore halfback, would be a sensation in the backfield, and that big Tim Moynihan, center, and Larry "Moon" Mullins, fullback, would be hard men to deal with this season.

ELDER, the football writers say, has an excellent opportunity to gain All-America honors this fall. He has tremendous speed and uses it to advantage on the gridiron. The Notre Dame flier is five feet eight inches tall, weighs 165 pounds, and several times has negotiated the century in 9 3-5 seconds, the accepted world's record.

But look at the Notre Dame schedule before you boom the Irish for national championship honors. If they win every game they certainly ought to be awarded the championship, besides all the Carnegie medals for bravery and heroism that can be manufactured. They have made a gallant start, 'tis true, but look what lies before them.

CARNEGIE TECH, a ranking eleven of the east, and Georgia Tech, the Golden Tornado of the south, play Knute Rockne's Ramblers. If the "Fighting Irish" get over those hurdles, they have an opportunity to regain their second wind when they meet Drake, although the Bulldogs were champions of the Missouri Valley Conference in 1928 and no setup for the ordinary team. However, Notre Dame's team is said to be extraordinary and it is expected that they will dispose of the Drake outfit.

BUT then comes more grief for the Irish. They meet Southern California, Pacific coast and national champions of 1928, Northwestern University, another strong Western Conference eleven, and the Army.

Truly, Notre Dame this year is living up to its name of "The Ramblers." Not a game on their schedule is a home game. Only once, against Indiana, did they play in their home state. Two others are carded for Soldiers' Field, Chicago, while the remainder necessitate trips to such distant points as New York in the east and Atlanta in the south.

LIBRARY NOTES

By NANCY B. THOMAS

The Baldwin Public Library has received this week the 24 volumes of the 14th edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. It is an important event in book publication for this is practically a new set of reference material of the highest order. It differs from the former editions in that it is made for the English-speaking people and not just for the English who are in the British Isles.

It is dedicated "with permission" to Herbert C. Hoover and His Majesty, George the Fifth. It is interesting to note that Mr. Hoover's name is first. The editor in chief, J. L. Garvin, is an Englishman but Franklin H Hooper is the American editor. The departmental editors and advisory board are made up of an equal number of men from London and New York. Among the New Yorkers are Henry Seidel Canby, John Dewey, Roscoe Pound, James Harvey Robinson and C. C. Williamson.

The make-up of the volume differs from the old. The print is clear and fairly large, the subjects are set off in black ink and the illustrations are many and well done. Accompanying the article on Detroit is a copy of an etching by Anton Schutz called "Towers of Detroit," showing the Book-Cadillac Hotel and the Washington boulevard building. There are many photographs of mechanical processes and manufacture.

The style of the writing is more for the general reader than it was in former editions. This does not mean it is less scholarly but scholars are learning to write more clearly and to use vocabularies suited to the average person. It is not enough for a man to know a subject well now-a-days but it is necessary for him to be able to pass on to others what he has learned in a way they may understand.

Defects and omissions will doubtless be found in this great work but they will be small compared with what has been accomplished. The material was gathered in three years a short time for the compiling of such a volume. A study of the encyclopaedia will reflect an age of spee din scholastic progress as well os industry. Minutes devoted to the study of the contents of a single volume will convince any reader that we live in an age that speeds up not only manufacture but scholarship itself.

In baseball, base stealing is considered a creditable performance, but only when a game is in progress. Two men in Quincy, Mass., were fined $10 each for stealing three bases literally from the diamond at Milton Park when they thought no one was looking. They didn't try to carry away the home plate, which was nailed down.

Walter Morton, 8, of Elgin, Ill., has fallen from a roof and been struck by a street car and automobile, but never has been seriously hurt.

Another New Home in* Bloomfield Village
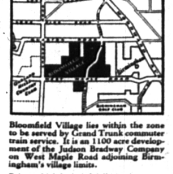
a Judson Bradway Community Development



Bloomfield Village lies within the zone to be served by Grand Trunk commuter train service. It is an 1100 acre development of the Judson Bradway Company on West Maple Road adjoining Birmingham's village limits.

Prices which include* full city improvements are as low as $2950 for 80-foot homesites, and larger, and are procurable on modest terms. A phone call to Randolph 9700 will bring illustrated literature.

*Improvements in Bloomfield Village: water, gas, electricity, storm and sanitary sewers, telephone, underwalks, shade trees, winding graveled drives lined with concrete curb and gutter.

Have you visited Bloomfield Village in recent weeks? If you have not, you will be impressed by the large number of distinctive new residences that have been completed during the latter part of this past summer.

As a means of giving those interested in fine home construction the opportunity to inspect typical Bloomfield Village residences, the Judson Bradway Company has arranged with several builders for a showing of their homes. They are plainly marked and will be open on Saturday afternoons and after 2.00 p. m. on Sundays. You are invited to avail yourself of this privilege.
