Coughs Don't Just Happen

Coughing is unnatural! It is an evidence of some disorder affecting the respiratory tract. And this cough and the disorder accompanying it doesn't just happen. Back of this trouble is a cause to be corrected.

Coughs are produced by an inflamed, irritated condition of the membrane lining the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs. This in turn is due to a failure of the nerve currents governing this membrane.

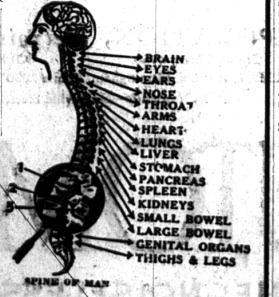

The nerves feeding and regulating this membrane, like all the other nerves, have their origin in the spine. They branch off from the spinal cord and leave the spinal column between two adjacent vertebrae. This is where interference occurs, and this is where Chiropractic adjustments remove the cause of disease.
