It might have been expected of three such famous flyers as Colonel Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Lieutenant Al Williams of the U. S. Navy (at left) and Lieutenant Jimmy Doolittle of the U. S. Army (at right) that they could manage a few bar-raising stunts in mid-air. But the things this trio of birdmen did during the National Air Races in Cleveland—well, it was far more than you'd imagine if you didn't see them.

Bill Williams finished his feat of pushing a peanut up Pike's Peak Pole of Chicago, asked a magus with his nose several hours ahead tried to send him to jail so he could escape from a nagging wife of schedule.
