Gambling is a game of CHANCE—therefor mamee cant be a GAMBLER—because what CHANCE has a man?

Dinner Stories

does he like?"

"Well, the only time I saw him play he used a small white ball. But I can not say I gathered the impression that he exactly liked it." —Punch.

There's nothing like golf to harden a man's muscles, steady his nerves, clear his head and build him up physically and mentally so that he can play more golf.—Life.

They were court-martialing the soldier for desertion, and the case looked very black until the young officer acting for the defense arose. "Sir," he said, addressing the President, "I admit appearances are against this man. But I propose to prove that in civic life he was a plumber—and he was only going back for his bayonet."

"Acquitted." — Border Cities Star.

A steam lorry recently crashed into a barber's shop. We understand that there was such confusion that it seemed for a moment as if the barber would lose the thread of his remarks.—London Opinion.

Hussy: What shall I do? Bob has been under water for twenty minutes.

Second Creature: "Let's go home. I wouldn't wait any longer for any man.—M. J. T. Voo-Doo.

"Have you left anything?" is a sign placed in many American hotels. There are hotels in London where a more appropriate question to the departing guest would be "Have you anything left?—London Opinion.
