Mr. Loughran and Mr. Sharkey Are To Fight And It May Not Be Such A Much, Says Martin

BY PHILIP MARTIN

INTO a heavyweight picture dotted with Campolo, Scott, Schmeling and sundry other gallopers and goofs comes the impending battle between Tommy Loughran, the Philadelphia gentleman, and Jack Sharkey (Kykaukas) Sept. 26 at Yankee Stadium.

This is meant to bring some relief to a malodorous cauliflower situation, but the consensus of opinion is that it won't be much. If Mr. Sharkey, the Boston Squat, has one of his good days, he ought to beat the former light-heavyweight tapper without shedding a great deal of perspiration. But Jack Sharkey's good days are like gin mills in Death Valley, very much in the nature of a mirage.

Both these boys are apt to be very nice to one another. A spectator is liable to forget himself at this entertainment and think he is attending a private showing of Gutzon Borglum's carvings. Which is to say the affair is just apt to be very staturesque, disestablishmentarian and fromagenous. Write your own tickets, m'lade.

FROM Philadelphia comes the amazing intelligence that Tommy Loughran grew an inch after his 25th year. His manager accounts for it by saying the Celtic is slow to mature, and, of course, Tom's a Celt.

Mr. Sharkey is already well-matured, especially vocally. The Bostonian is a Lithuanian and a Chautauquan.

SPEAKING of sedentary athletics, Newell Banks, checker champion, has just written a book, called "Banks' Scientific Checkers." In more than 25 years of competition, Banks has been beaten only once in match play, and that was said to have been in Scotland (probably for a shilling). Did you know that more than a million moves are possible in checkers? If you hope to attain the ranks of the experts you must have at least 4,000 combination moves at your command. Banks says he knows more than 40,000.

ASIDE from his checkers, Banks is an interesting person to talk to—I mean to listen to. He has delved into strange bypaths. "There are rays so powerful that no human being can control them," says the checker champion. "Rays that travel more than a million miles in less than 10 seconds and are all around us, but we are unconscious of them. Who knows when someone will find a way to control the rays? Look at the radio."

"Who can measure space? What does limitless space mean to man? When you talk about a trillion miles it carries no meaning. It is too far beyond human imagination. So is a million miles or a million tons."

All right, Newell, there, there!

community, were holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Erhard, at their summer home at Pine Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hack and sons, William and Robert of Detroit, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Howell at their summer home at Algonac, over the holiday.

Miss Mary Patterson, Misses Grace and Ethel Howlett, Mr. Harry Squire and Peter Howlett attended a picnic, held at Smith's Landing, Lakeville, Tuesday, August 27.

Archbishop Ussher's figure showed that the world was created in the year 4004 B. C. A famous British physicist says it is three billion years older than that. What is your guess?

LIQUOR COUNT HEARINGS HELD

One Man Bound Over; Another Examination Delayed A Week

Following examination today in Justice Floyd S. Buck's court, Robert Burdick, of Oxford Township is at liberty under bail of $1,000 on a charge of keeping a place where liquor is sold. He was arrested in a raid on his home by Oakland County deputies. He will be tried during the present term of circuit court.

Continuation of examination of Harold Bertrand, of Orion Township is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon in Justice Buck's court. Bertrand is held on a charge of selling liquor. Failure of witnesses to appear last Friday caused the postponement.

G. R. Bowen, a Chicago porter, was arrested for stealing French goods, the wearing of which by his wife aroused the suspicions of his employer.

What makes a House a Home?

Stylish walls and expensive furniture cannot make a home homelike. But the steady, genial flow of warmth from American Radiator Heating Equipment, when the world is bleak and storms are raging, makes a home of the humblest cottage. Let us tell you how the smallest home can buy this comfort cheaply and easily.
