THE WAY OF THE WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

WE'RE NOT ALIKE. Hard-working, expression, quite inaccurate, as this: Human nature is all alike. The inference is that people do not differ greatly. The fact is they differ remarkably. They differ so much that sometimes one is led to believe some humans belong to a different order in the animal kingdom. You cannot tell what your reaction to an impulse or a situation is going to be because you have observed the reaction of someone else to the same situation. There are people who love the sea and those who love the hill country. And there are those who love the flat country best of all. The world wouldn't trade ten miles of winding road in a fairly level country for an ocean and a chain of mountains.

We all differ. Our problem is to make the best adjustment to life—for ourselves and which we are capable. We are not called upon to live life for anybody else or even to tell anybody else how to live it.

TEENBORE
Child training experts tell us that stubbornness in children reaches its peak at the age of two. Being short on language about the only tool of expression the two-year-old has is the word "no." Stubbornness is one of those characteristics that run all the way through childhood to old age. It isn't so bad in children. It can be dealt with. It's an unfortunate trait in grown-ups. Note that it is really a child's failing. When you observe it in men and women you may conclude they are not entirely grown up.

with the men who make the laws of the United States and who have it within their power to declare or not to declare war, he made a tremendous contribution to the cause of peace and international understanding. The question now arises if this same procedure cannot be worked out among all civilized nations. Why wouldn't it be a great force for peace to have the heads of governments speak from time to time directly to the law-making bodies of other governments? The congress of the United States would gladly give the head of every government in Europe a cordial reception and an earnest hearing in any critical situation.

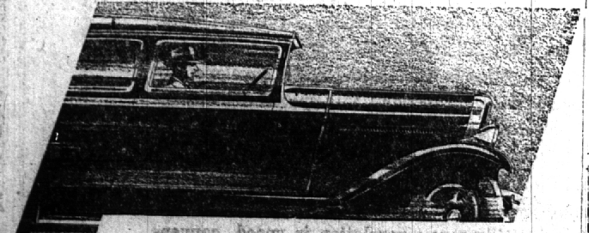

JUST AMONG US GIRLS

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME

High in power—moderate in weight --and therefore SUPERIOR in PERFORMANCE

An 85-horsepower engine makes the New Oakland Eight the highest powered car produced for its weight and size, only racing cars excepted. Because it develops one horsepower to 37 pounds of car weight, few cars can match the New Oakland's speed, pick-up and power. This ratio of power to weight accounts for its superior performance. . . . Furthermore, the inherent eight-cylinder smoothness of the power plant is intensified by a complete down-draft fuel system—new type cylinder heads—a short, very rigid crankshaft—and laminated steel spring and rubber engine supports. . . . The New Oakland Eight is also very economical to own. Its gasoline mileage equals that of many sizes of comparable size. Its sound basic design assures dependability and long service. And the extreme accessibility of its parts keeps maintenance costs at the minimum. . . . Come in and see this car with smartly tailored bodies by Fisher. It will convince you that you can now own an exceptionally fine eight at a very moderate price.

The New Oakland Eight, $1045 and up, is a Pontiac, Michigan, plus delivery charges. Lovely Hydraulic Shock absorbers included in list price. Bumper, rear fender guards and splicing covers extra. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list. At a $400 price when comparable automobiles average $1000, the New Oakland Eight is a real bargain. Freight and delivery and the charge for any additional accessories at increasing cost.

In the World of Humor

A man is reported to have been cured of deafness while looking at a talking picture. It seems very hard luck that the cure should happen just then—London Opinion.

Bobby: Tom Gray's been turned down by three girls succession. Nobby: By Jove! He'd better look out, or his luck will change. —Answers.

An expert says that wireless talk broadcast from America could be heard at the bottom of the North Sea. A new terror is added to Davey Jones' locker. —Punch.

Cue for Applause.—Salesman (showing customer some sports stockings)—"Just the Latest pattern, fast colors, holeproof, won't shrink, and it's a good yarn." Customer (politely)—"Very well told, too." —Wall Street Journal.

Flapper: And next week I'm off to Paris to get my clothes. Grandmother: Yes. Yes. I wondered where you'd left them. —Life.

Chilly Treatment.—Facetious Customer.—"Why so gloomy, old chap?" Gloomy One.—"Just heard my uncle has cut me out of his will."

He's altered it five times in the last two years." "First? Evidently a fresh-hair fiend." —Muskogee Phoenix.

Sweet: "How I hate that man!" Neat: "Why, what's the trouble?" "I thought you were in love with him?" Sweet: "Well, he told me I couldn't whistle, and I showed him I could by puckering up my mouth so nice and round." Neat: "Well, what of that?" Sweet: "The brute just let me whistle." —Fateograph.

Clark: Does your wife really obey you?" Darke: Sometimes. When I say, "Go ahead and never mind me," she always does. —Answers.

Why Dads Go Broke.—"The wedding reception beggars description," says a report in a local paper. Not to mention the bride's father. —Punching Show.

"How did you cure your wife of her antique craze?" "Oh, I just gave her a 1907 model car for her birthday." —Person's.

Knows Her Catalog.—"You can get anything at a mail-order house," remarked the lady next door. "Everything, alas! but a male," sighed the old maid. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

Barber: "Sir, your hair is turning gray." Customer: "Quite possible, quite possible. I say, can't you spur the job up a bit?" —Worcester's.
