Sports Togs Varied

By FRANCES CLYNE

Sports events, this spring will take on some of the romance and glamor of a garden party, if I may judge by the soft and flattering new modes in costumes for such occasions.

Both for active and for spectator sports, they come in such delectable pastel colors, such beautiful fabrics and with such soft touches, that they give the illusion of great gentleness in women. Which may, of course, lead to great surprises when met engage them as their opponents in a driving game of golf or tennis.

Softest, Sheerest Fabrics. I have used the softest and sheerest of wools, some of these semi-sheer crepes, tweeds, that feel like silk, and many of the new ribbed fabrics, in wool and silk and wool.

The pepum is an ideal theme for spring suits of this type, it seems to me. There is such youth in pepums, quite in the spirit of this most hopeful time of year. Pepums have such buoyancy, too. And above all, a costume with the pepum theme achieves that illusion of motion which all good little sports suits should be born with. My skirts have the flare needed for motion, but the light blouse preserves the slender silhouette from which the pepum stands out. Coats with pepums are finger tip jacket length, and with this type I use either the tuck-in blouse, or if it is an overblouse, its pepum fits somewhat like a skirt yoke.

There are many types of sports things this spring. For the girl who wears dressy things to advantage, I have used a pale beige, semi-sheer wool in a ribbed weave. It has its little pepum and its skirt flares with a circular movement. For the blouse, crepe Elisabeth is used, with hand-sewing which carries out the suit's softness. It has a collar of gal-

Movie Fashions

For a very different type of woman, especially we suited to one very young, I have a Copenhagen blue suit, a strictly tailored little thing, with finger tip coat and a white blouse of flat crepe with a youthful Peter Pan collar.

Then for those who prefer the sports ensemble, I find the long coat of lightweight tweed, with matching little frock, very satisfactory. These new long coats are so smart and charmingly youthful in their high belts, their flaring lines. When collarless, the frock under them solves the neck difficulties.

This sports ensemble has its advantages. A little later on, the matching lines can be changed to a figured crepe silk in the same color tones. Then one is fitted for warm weather races and other sports events.

All these varieties have infinite chic and equal smartness. It is a matter of telling women to suit themselves so they will be suited for the occasion and decorative as well.

This menu was planned for three. The oranges and grapefruit is sliced at night and sprinkled with a small amount of sugar. The vegetable salad is made of cabbage, carrots and onions. File the home canned vegetable soup recipe.

Today's Recipes
Broiled Haddock with Potato Puff—Cut fish in pieces of desired size. Dip in melted butter which has been salted. Boil the fish until tender, then place in the center of a platter which may be placed in the oven. Cook potatoes and mash them thoroughly. Melt butter, beat it into the potatoes; add one egg, well beaten, then cream and seasoning. Beat all thoroughly with a silver fork. Arrange this around the fish and place in the oven until delicately browned. Garnish with parsley.

Home-Canned Vegetable Soup—One peck tomatoes, cooked and strained, six onions, three stalks celery, one pinch cayenne pepper, one-half cup salt, one-half cup sugar, one-half cup flour. Cook onions and celery together. Blend last four ingredients and make smooth with cold water. Add to boiling mixture. Can in sterilized jars. This may be thinned when opened with milk or water. If milk is used, be sure that it does not curdle. Use pinch of soda when soup is heated.

The Government is issuing all sorts of booklets and records of interest to women. The Bureau of Standards has now attempted to tell just what the correct measurements for the perfect woman should be, but fails to explain just how it arrived at these conclusions.

The scientists say that the Perfect Thirty-Four is now the most popular body style for the modern lady. With the 34 bust measurement there should be a waist measuring 28 and hips, 37.

The perfect 36, which used to be the standard, should go along with a 31 waist and hips measuring 39.

Manufacturers of women's clothing are said to have requested this information from the government.

Miss Ella Dudley, a servant, was arrested for trying to burn the home of Rev. R. W. Gilson of Belfast while he was asleep.

Yak, dyed the same shade as the pale beige of the wool, which further heightens that feminine softness of the whole suit.

For a very different type of woman, especially we suited to one very young, I have a Copenhagen blue suit, a strictly tailored little thing, with finger tip coat and a white blouse of flat crepe with a youthful Peter Pan collar.

Then for those who prefer the sports ensemble, I find the long coat of lightweight tweed, with matching little frock, very satisfactory. Prom Queen

One reason why a good time will be had by all at the Ripon College "prom" this year is that Miss Adelaide Munson, above, of Detroit, has been elected Prom Queen. Adelaide, who is president of the Women's Athletic Association at the Wisconsin institution, is a member of the basketball, rifle and archery teams.

Women Only

WOMEN MAY NOW
EAT 65 CENTS WORTH

Movie actresses are said to be no longer worrying about the dangerous curves, living on lettuce sandwiches, and religiously counting the calories. The new silhouette allows them at least another ten pounds, and their luncheons have accordingly assumed an average price of 65c.

That ought to be welcome news for ye females, who, though they do not have to face the loss of a position if they gain a few extra pounds, nevertheless probably spend nearly as much time worrying about their figures as do the movie actresses.

But here is the sad thing about this new silhouette. After striving for years to gain the boy-like figure, women decide that curves are not only permissible, but they are the thing. Another example of the revision that so often takes place in a woman's mind when she has attained the thing she thinks she wants.

The average woman today spends more money for hosiery than any other one item. She pays on an average of $1.50 for a pair of hose that lasts probably one fourth as long as the sturdy cotton stockings that Grandmother bought for a quarter. A tiny flaw, and the "run," that really is to blame for this whole hosiery problem, breaks forth. Made of thin, flimsy silk, woman's hose today are her most unreasonably item of clothing. Yet she demands that they be sheer, and transparent, to the point of impracticability.

There surely is a fortune awaiting the man who makes a hose that looks like y-moderns, and wears like Grandmother's trusty cotton tops.

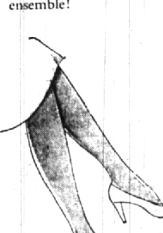

The new dresses that Madame Fashion has decreed for spring just do require more knowledge of one's own figure, individual good and bad style qualifications that tell you where to place that line, bolero, tier, or whatnot.

Not long ago straight dresses gave everybody more or less the same outline. Then came these flares, ruffles and waists... delightful but dangerous. But with a little study, one soon finds ways and means to simulate Venus. You learn, for instance, that wide hips delight in a bolero. Slim hips can wear a flared hip line that gives the effect of a slim waist line, and youthfulness. You'll make many original discoveries about your figure with the aid of a mirror.

Tell Your Merchant You Saw His Advertisement in THE ECCENTRIC

"DID YOU NOTICE How DULL-LOOKING Her RUGS WERE?"

There are still some people in Birmingham who do not realize the wonderful effect clean rugs have on the brightness of their homes. They have often wondered why their rooms looked dingy and their furniture dull, but never knew that soiled rugs were the cause. Thousands of people know the truth of this assertion, however. For they have discovered that by sending their rugs regularly to Ridley's for a thorough, scientific cleansing, their homes were made not only more sanitary, but also more lovely and more livable.

The reputation for expertness and reliability gained by Ridley's after 55 years of experience in the rug and furniture cleaning business is your assurance that they KNOW clean rugs brighten the home. Call Ridley's tomorrow morning.
