THE WAY OF THE WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

WORK AND A HOBBY
Nancy will envy Adrian B. Cooke, 90-year-old Chicago man, who has patented 87 inventions and is still at it. He works six days a week and calls inventing his hobby. Happy is the man who finds his work is his hobby. He is sure to make good and be it sure to find self-expression in his job.

ALL NEIGHBORS
A Liverpool preacher, speaking in St. John's Cathedral, New York, tells us the world is so small now that we are all neighbors. Transportation and news communication have done that. It is always more or less difficult to get along with neighbors. We carry a greater responsibility than ever for our behavior now that we all live so close together. In the early days a man could live pretty much by and for himself. It can't be done now.

WHAT'S IT ABOUT?
Dale Jackson, endurance flier, wonder, flies from Montreal to New York, 350 miles, in an hour and 55 minutes. And Pennsylvania railroad officials predict a 14-hour electric train between New York and Chicago. What is it all about? What are we going to do when we get there? One wonders if the well known world is going a little crazy.

TELEPHONES
The United States has upward of 20 million telephones. The rest of the world has but 10 million. Germany comes next to the United States with three million. Wonder how much waste talk goes over those 20,000,000 phones? And what a wonderful thing for the American nervous system if they were all taken out for a year.

COMPLAINT
We humans reveal our weaknesses in many ways. Perhaps oftentimes of all we show our weakness in a complaining attitude toward our surroundings. The habit of complaining is a sad and dangerous one and hard to break. It grows on some people until they become hopelessly tiresome. The attitude of complaint has not so much to do with our situation in life as it has with a mere habit of thinking. Many who, in the opinion of their friends, seem to have the most to make them unhappy complain the least. Others who apparently have every reason for contentment and happiness complain the most. There is but one way to cure ourselves of the habit of complaining and that is to "pull ourselves together." There are times in life when a man must literally take hold of himself and force his thinking out of wrong channels and into right ones.

you'll be delighted with it if it is Modern laundered.

Soiled things are "at home" here. Big, thirsty Turkish towels or dainty, colorful frocks—we handle as carefully as you would yourself. Mild soaps and specialized methods safeguard the beauty of fine fabrics, insuring their return to you as fresh and charming as when new. A trial will convince you.
